and volunteers, having attached to each a battery of artillery and troop of cavalry. There will be a considerable reserve of regulars and volunteers, should the brigades already formed not be sufficient to meet the emergency.

Many of the tailors of New York have assented to raise the wages of the journeymen who were in the strike.

The Medical Superintendents of American Institutions for the Insane began their twenty-second annual session in Boston yesterday. Superintendents of asylums from different parts of the country are present. A project for a general law for determining legal relations and their committal to asylums was considered, and a draft of such a law is to be perfected.

A man named Herring was kicked to death by a party of roughs on Broadway in Cleveland, early yesterday morning. The principals were arrested.

The laborers on the Southern boulevard in Westchester county, N. Y., have struck for an advance of wages, and made riotous demonstrations, which were suppressed by the police, and several of the ringleaders arrested.

The operatives in three great iron manufactories in Troy have struck.

The American Dental Convention commenced its fourteenth annual session in New York yesterday.

Counterfeit tens on the Saratoga County National Bank of Waterford, N. Y., are circulating.

General Hooker and wife are expected on the steamer St. Laurent, now due at New York. The health of both is very poor.

The naval practice squadron sails from Annapolis on the 6th, for the Azores.

Two seamen of the ship Caroline Wagner, from San Francisco, were arrested for mutiny and severely injuring the mate and steward.

The steamer Ben McCulloch took fire on the 29th, while lying up for the night in Ouachita river, between Trenton and Camden, and burned to the water's edge. Three lives were lost, namely: Mr. Smith, of Arkansas; Mrs. Ryan and daughter, of Alabama.

During a rain storm last Friday, a water spout swept down [illegible] Mountain, in [illegible] township, [illegible] county, Maryland, cutting three ravines down the side of the mountain, one of them four rods wide and eight feet deep, and uprooting in its course trees ten inches in diameter, causing Lincolnville Fork, in one night, three feet higher than it was ever known.

The meeting of the National Board of Trade will commence in Philadelphia this morning. The session will be held in the Academy of Music, and will probably be continued several days. Most ample provisions have been made for the entertainment of delegates. Business will be transacted during the mornings, and in the afternoons the visitors will be escorted to various places of interest about the city. This afternoon they visit Fairmount Park. Friday evening there will be a grand banquet at the Academy of Music, given by the city. On Saturday a trip will be made [illegible]

Opening of the Political Campaign.

The eastern division of the National Republican Executive Committee held a meeting here this afternoon, at which Messrs. Claflin of Massachusetts, Chandler of New Hampshire, Starkweather of Connecticut, and Greeley of New York were present. The members from Vermont and Pennsylvania were absent. Messrs. Cowan, of Ohio, and Gorham, of California, of another division of the Committee, were also informally in attendance. A long consultation was had with the secretary of the Congressional Executive Committee, and the gentlemen generally indulged in a conversation about the work during the campaign. It was unanimously agreed that the work in the South should be prosecuted with vigor, and the conviction was expressed that with proper effort all the Southern States, except Texas, and possibly Virginia, can be carried next November for Grant and Colfax. The General Committee and Congressional Committee will co-operate heartily in campaign labors. Mr. Greeley and Governor Claflin both took an exceedingly hopeful view of the situation, and said we would carry the country in the fall by a great majority. The Executive Committee is to meet again in New York on the 15th inst., and immediately thereafter will open its rooms and establish its headquarters in that city, and begin work in good earnest. The Committee met several prominent Congressmen this evening at the rooms of Senator Chandler for general consultation, but took no further action.

[illegible] John C. Breckinridge [illegible]. Adopted.

Mr. UPSON presented a minority report in the Kentucky contested election case of McKee against Young.

Mr. WASHBURNE, of Wisconsin, introduced a joint resolution relating to confederate property in Europe. Referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Mr. [illegible] introduced a joint resolution for the transfer of the suit concerning Harper's Ferry property from the State Court of West Virginia. Referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. SCOFIELD called up the contested election case of Delano against Morgan, in which the Committee reports a resolution that Morgan, the sitting member, is not entitled to a seat, and that Delano, the contestant, is. He defended the report of the Committee.

The case in favor of the sitting member was presented by Mr. KERR, of the minority of the Committee, who occupied two hours and a quarter in an argument in its support.

He was succeeded by Mr. LAWRENCE, of Ohio, who supported the claim of the contestant.

The debate was continued by Mr. WOODWARD on behalf of the sitting member, and by the sitting member himself.

Without taking a vote the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 2, 1868.

CABINET MEETING.

Gen. Schofield attended the Cabinet meeting this morning, at which all the other members were present.

HON. ANSON BURLINGAME,

With the members of Chinese Embassy, called at the State Department this morning, and had an interview with Secretary Seward.

INDIAN TREATY.

The following communication has been received at the Indian Department:

CHEYENNE, DAKOTA, June 1.

To Hon. N. G. Taylor, Commissioner of Indian Affairs:

We concluded a treaty with the Ogallallas on the 25th inst. Twenty-six chiefs and leading warriors, including those of Red Cloud's band, signed the treaty. [illegible] chiefs and warriors also signed. I now think there will be no fear of difficulty.

VISITORS TO GEN. SCHOFIELD.

Major General Hancock and staff, Brevet Brigadier General Emory and staff, and the House Committee on Military Affairs called at the War Department to-day, and paid their respects to General Schofield.

THE PRESIDENT

To-day informed the House that the ten days constitutional limit having expired, the bill to make appropriation to supply deficiencies for the execution of reconstruction had become a law without his signature.

BOWEN ELECTED.

The official vote elects Bowen, Republican, Mayor by 74 majority. The Council on joint ballot shows a Conservative majority of 2.

CONSUL NOMINATED.

The President has nominated to the Senate Robert L. Matthews, of Indiana, Consul at Naples.

THE WAR DEPARTMENT.

At the War Department this morning, the usual routine of business was transacted. The guards which have been stationed around the building were not placed on duty, General Schofield having yesterday ordered their removal.

Stanbery's Nomination Rejected.

THE IMPEACHMENT INVESTIGATION

Educational Bureau Report.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 2, 1868.

Stanbery's Nomination Rejected.

The Senate in executive session to-day rejected Mr. Stanbery for Attorney General by a vote of 29 to 11. The only Republicans voting for him were reported to be Fowler, Henderson, Ross and Sherman. Some of Mr. Stanbery's friends say quite a number of Senators were actuated in their opposition by Stanbery's appointment and countenancing of Binckley. Others hold that his whole course on reconstruction justifies his rejection. Portions of his speech defending the President were also decidedly objected to by quite a number of Senators, and the general belief is that the matter has turned principally upon his connection with the impeachment trial.

The Impeachment Investigation.

The Managers to-day examined Mr. Adams, of the Washington Lobby, Edmund Cooper and Cornelius Wendell. Adams swore that he never had any such conversation, either with Thurlow Weed or Smythe, as Weed testified to before the managers. Cooper's examination was a continuation of the matter already published, in which he was concerned.

The Morgan-Delano Matter.

The Intelligencer of this morning, in an article on the Delano-Morgan case, on which the House spent the whole day, and will vote to-morrow, closes with the following threat:

"We suppose Morgan is to be rejected, but we warn the Radical majority that the day of retribution is not far distant, and that the State thus wronged, insulted and deprived of her just rights, will not only send back the outraged member as an expression of her high and just appreciation of him and her indignant resentment towards an unscrupulous faction, but that she will mark with her reprobation the party of which they are the fit instruments. These outrages, continued and shameful as they are, only serve to provoke that feeling of indignation which is necessary in a great crisis like this, to overwhelm their perpetrators. REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

Spirited Contest for Nominations.

The Legislative and County Ticket.

THE RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

Western Pennsylvania and the United States Senatorship.

An Outlet to the Seaboard.

The County Executive Committee.

The delegates to the County Convention began to assemble fully an hour before the time fixed in the call, and knots of delegates and candidates thronged the Court House steps and the rotunda. The most active canvassing seemed to be between the friends of General Pearson and Mr. Moreland, the candidates for District Attorney, but any amount of "button-holing" was done in behalf of the other candidates.

At ten o'clock, J. H. Miller, Esq., Chairman of the County Committee, and Messrs. N. P. Reed and C. C. Taylor, Secretaries, took possession of the Quarter Sessions room, which had been assigned for use of the Convention, and, keeping the delegates and spectators in the rotunda and lobby, called for the credentials of delegates, and admitted them to seats inside the bar as their names were recorded. This was done for the purpose of preventing outsiders from interfering with the delegates in their action, and was only measurably successful.

THE DELEGATES.

At half-past ten o'clock Mr. Miller called the convention to order, when the list of delegates already prepared was called over, and the necessary corrections made. The following is the list:

Hampton—Samuel G. Brown, H. L. Anderson.

PERMANENT ORGANIZATION.

The Chairman then announced that the next business in order would be the choice of permanent President.

Col. Edward Jay Allen and Thomas Ewing, Esq., were placed in nomination for the office of President.

The roll was called and the vote resulted as follows:

Thomas Ewing	109
Edward Jay Allen	59

Mr. Ewing was declared duly elected, amid the applause of his friends.

MR. EWING'S ADDRESS.

On taking the chair Mr. Ewing said:

Gentlemen—Allow me to thank you for the honor you have conferred in choosing me to preside over your deliberations. The contest was conducted in good spirit, and I hope the deliberations of the Convention will go on in harmony, remembering that this is simply preliminary to the great fight which is to take place in October against the common enemy. [Applause.] Four years ago the Democratic party, assembled in convention, and at a time when the country was convulsed with civil strife, declared that "the war was a failure," and placed in nomination that greatest of military failures, George B. McClellan. The party fell headlong into the ditches prepared for them by that great ditch digger, and have not yet recovered from the effects of their fall. At the end of four years we approach the contest which is to determine what men and what principles shall control the affairs of the Government. [A voice—"Grant and Negley."] Yes, General Negley will assuredly be one of those men, and we can rely upon him acquitting himself as satisfactorily in Congress as he did in the field. [Applause.] The question to be determined is, whether the nation shall be permitted to reap the fruits of the war for the Union, so successfully fought by our soldiers and sailors, or whether the government shall be handed over to those who aided the rebellion in the North as well as in the South. Allegheny county will do her whole duty by rolling up her accustomed majority for Grant and Colfax. (Loud applause.) Again I thank you, gentlemen, and ask your assistance in the discharge of my duties. Should I err, you will please attribute my errors to the head and not to the heart.

Messrs. Joseph C. Dickson, George Y. McKee and James P. Brown were chosen Vice Presidents.

Mr. Brush moved the following nominations for secretaries: D. B. Ferguson, David Aiken, Jr., Ralph J. Richardson, T. W. Davis.

Mr. Reynolds moved that Messrs. John S. Ferguson, Wm. B. Hunter, Wm. Tate and Dr. J. Vaughn, be nominated as secretaries.

The [illegible] eight secretaries should be elected instead of four, and the gentlemen above named were all chosen to that position.

COMMITTEE ON CONTESTED SEATS.

Mr. Moorhead moved that the chair appoint a committee of five on contested seats. Agreed to, and the Chair appointed Messrs. M. K. Moorhead, S. J. Wainwright, Abdiel McClure, Dr. J. H. Roberts, and David Beck.

COMMITTEE ON RESOLUTIONS.

John McDonald moved the appointment of a committee of five, by the Chair, to draft resolutions. The motion was agreed to, and the Chair appointed as said committee: John McDonald, Allegheny; R. P. Nevin, Sewickley; W. J. Snodgrass, Mifflin; Dr. Shaffer, Elizabeth; and Colonel E. J. Allen, Braddock.

THE COUNTY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

It was moved that the delegates in this Convention give in the name of one person from each district to serve upon the County Committee.

Mr. Dalzell offered an amendment that the Committee consist of forty members, to be appointed by the President of the Convention, with power to choose their own chairman and add to their number.

Mr. Craig moved as a substitute for the whole matter, the appointment of a committee of three, to confer with the committees from the Congressional Conventions, and report to this Convention before adjournment.

The substitute was adopted, and the Chair appointed as said committee Messrs. Craig, of Oakland, Lee, of Scott township, and McNeill, of Allegheny.

Mr. McDonald moved that the Convention now proceed to name the candidates for the various offices to be filled. Agreed to. [The list will be found below.]

A motion was adopted, requesting the chairman to invite Hon. Galusha A. Grow, now in the city, to address the Convention, at some suitable time during the afternoon session.

The Secretaries were then instructed to procure printed slips of the nominations for the use of the Convention.

The Convention then adjourned to meet at half-past one o'clock.

Afternoon Session.

The convention met at half-past one o'clock, and was called to order by the President. The Secretaries not having the printed lists of nominees ready, and none of the committees being ready to report, the Chairman introduced Hon. Galusha A. Grow.

SPEECH OF MR. GROW.

Mr. Grow, on being introduced, said he did not intend to trespass upon the time of the convention, but would retire on the appearance of either of the committees. He first directed attention to the importance of a thorough and efficient organization in every sub-district, so that each Republican vote could be had at the polls on the day of the election. The contest would be no holiday sport, and efficient organization was necessary to success. The result of the election in 1864 virtually ended the rebellion, and the result of the present contest would decide whether the sacrifices of the war should be made available to the nation or not. To-day we enjoy peace, but the war of ideas goes on—the war that has shaken powers and principalities since the world began. On the one side was error and ignorance, on the other truth and progress. In these contests truth must ultimately prevail, but the victory is often long delayed, and must be won by persistent and persevering effort. The Democracy struggle for existence to-day, as without the power and patronage of the Government they cannot hope to sustain their party organization, covered as they are all over with treason against their country and the rights of man. [Applause.] Johnson has revived their hopes, and they fight with the desperation of despair. Mass meetings, conventions, etc., are as nothing compared with such thorough organization as will get out the entire vote of the party. See that every Republican votes once, and that no Democrat votes more than once. [Laughter.] General Grant will lead us to victory as triumphantly as he led our armies at Appomattox, but we must be fully armed and equipped for the fight, and march in solid column upon the works of the enemy. [Applause.] With a fair vote, Pennsylvania will cast her vote for Grant and Colfax by a large majority, but when such frauds as were exposed last fall are practised successfully by our opponents, it becomes necessary for us to redouble our efforts and increase our vigilance. The speaker concluded by an earnest and eloquent appeal to the Republicans of Allegheny county to be true to the principles of justice and equal rights to all men.

REPORT ON CONTESTED SEATS.

M. K. Moorhead, Chairman of the Committee on Contested Seats, then presented the following report:

The Committee on Contested Seats have decided in favor of the following gentlemen retaining seats in the Convention:

Sixth ward—First precinct—Jared M. Brush. They also decided that Mr. Brush should be entitled to two votes.

Sixth ward—Second precinct—Henry Wilson, Wm. Glenn.

Wilkins township—William A. Shaw, John B. McFarland.

Temperanceville—W. C. Taylor, Philip Weaver.

Pitt township—Robert Arthurs, Thomas Dickson.

There being no other contestants before the Committee, they recommended that the delegates having their credentials have their seats.

Signed by the Committee.

Mr. Reynolds took exceptions to that part of the report which allowed Mr. Brush two votes. It was not just that any such power should be delegated to him. He had a majority of the votes cast in the ward, and was entitled to vote; but there was no election for any other delegate—the vote being a tie. To allow him to vote for his defeated colleague would be simply unjust. He therefore moved to strike out that part of the report, and confine Mr. Brush to one vote.

Mr. Moorhead explained that it was the opinion of the committee that the Sixth ward should have a full representation in the Convention.

Mr. Brown asked what power the Committee had to confer the right upon any delegate to vote twice?

Mr. Brush stated that he had grown gray in attending Republican Conventions, and in all cases where there was but a partial representation from any district the party in attendance was allowed to vote for the absent colleague.

Cries of "no," "no," "yes," "that's right," "no justice in that," "Mr. Brush has no colleague," etc.

The question was further discussed by Messrs. Brown, Hunter, Brush and Reynolds, and on the question being put the amendment to strike out was carried, and the report as amended was adopted.

Mr. Nevin moved that delegates be allowed to vote for their absent colleagues.

A delegate moved to amend by adding "provided the delegate show his authority from his colleague in writing." The amendment was lost, and the original motion was adopted.

Mr. Brush then moved that the Convention proceed to a ballot by marking, which was agreed to.

THE FIRST BALLOT.

The result of the first ballot was announced at five o'clock, as follows:

DIRECTOR OF THE POOR.

J. G. Murray, Upper St. Clair	54
Goodman Y. Coulter, South Fayette	36
August Ammon, East Birmingham	13
J. B. McGrew, Elizabeth	12
Jacob Keil, Sharpsburg (withdrawn)

The wildest excitement followed the announcement of the ballot—especially that for District Attorney, Assistant District Attorney and Commissioner.

A SECOND BALLOT.

The Chair announced that a second ballot would be in order, as there was no nomination for District Attorney, three members of the Assembly, and Director of the Poor.

A motion was adopted to call the townships first, in order to allow the delegates an opportunity to get home at a reasonable hour.

Mr. Snodgrass moved that all candidates for Assembly, who had polled less than thirty-five votes, be stricken from the list. Agreed to.

A new list was prepared in accordance with this resolution, and the second ballot resulted as follows:

DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

A. L. Pearson*	84
W. C. Moreland	83

R. B. Parkinson was withdrawn.

ASSEMBLY.

George F. Morgan	62
David R. Coon	40
James Taylor*	97
David L. Smith	47
George R. Riddle	67
Guyan M. Irwin	31
David N. White	33
Wm. Espy	withdrawn
Samuel Kerr*	94

DIRECTOR OF THE POOR.

J. G. Murray*	61	Goodman Y. Coulter	10
August Ammon	4	J. B. McGrew	14

As soon as the result of the ballot for District Attorney became known, a delegate stated that the delegates from the Second Precinct of Birmingham had not voted, and that they were Moreland men.

This announcement created great excitement.

Another delegate stated that they had gone home, and if present they would vote for Pearson.

Still another gentleman announced that they were divided on the District Attorneyship and had paired off.

The Chair stated that it made no difference, as neither of them was present, and no one was authorized to vote for them.

The Chair announced that General A. L. Pearson had been nominated for District Attorney; James Taylor and Samuel Kerr for Assembly, and J. G. Murray for Director of the Poor.

The Convention, in connection with those in the lobby, raised the wildest shouts for Pearson. The General, being present, was caught up by a party of his friends, placed upon a table and called upon for a speech. He declined to speak, simply thanking his friends for their untiring efforts in his behalf, and, jumping from the table, escaped into the rotunda. The scene was one of the most exciting ever witnessed in a political convention.

THIRD BALLOT.

The Chair announced that a third ballot was next in order to nominate the remaining candidate for Assembly.

Mr. Brush moved the nomination, by acclamation, of Col. George F. Morgan.

Several delegates objected, as Allegheny City was without a representative on the Assembly ticket.

It was then moved to strike off all but the two highest from the list—Messrs. Morgan and Riddle, which was not agreed to.

A motion was then adopted to strike off all but the five highest, which cut off the name of Mr. Guyan M. Irwin.

A third ballot was then had, and resulted as follows:

George F. Morgan	57
David L. Smith	49
David N. White	31
George R. Riddle	21
David R. Coon	8

The Chair decided that no nomination had been made.

FOURTH BALLOT.

A fourth ballot having been ordered, a motion was made and adopted to strike off all but the two highest candidates, Messrs. Morgan and Smith.

The ballot resulted as follows:

George F. Morgan*	66
D. L. Smith	40

The result was hailed with applause by the Morgan men, while the Allegheny delegates complained of the action of the Convention in leaving them without a representative on the Assembly ticket.

THE RESOLUTIONS.

Colonel Allen, on behalf of the Committee on Resolutions, read the report, as follows:

Resolved, That we accept the platform of principles as laid down by the Union National Republican Convention at Chicago, as the best and truest system upon which this Government can be administered.

Resolved, That we cordially indorse the nomination of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, the world's chief captain, and Schuyler Colfax, the favorite among statesmen, whose bright and stainless record, true and sturdy patriotism, and unselfish devotion to our country in the past and present, give assurance of unity, peace and prosperity, to the future of our beloved Union under their administration.

Resolved, That the claims of Western Pennsylvania in the United States Senate have not been recognized as they are entitled to be, and that the members of the Legislature in Harrisburg, be instructed to respect the claims of this section, and to use all their influence (which ought to be of controlling force) to see them suitably sustained.

Resolved, That the prosperity of Allegheny county has been retarded by the want of a sufficient outlet to the seaboard, and in view of the endeavors of a gigantic monopoly to crush out all efforts in this direction, our members at Harrisburg are hereby instructed to use all their influence to aid in the passage of such measures as will advance the completion of the Allegheny Valley and Connellsville Railroads.

Resolved, That we recognize the fact that the war is not yet fought through, and that it is incumbent upon us to at the ballot box to sustain the measures which were gained by the bayonet, and which have been imperiled by the bad faith of those whom the country trusted.

Resolved, That the country is not forgetful of the soldiers whose courage and patriotism gave peace and prosperity to the land, and we here record our gratitude to the living and the dead.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted.

THE COUNTY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Mr. Craig, Chairman of the Conference Committee, presented the following report:

To the Allegheny County Convention:

The Committee appointed by you to confer with like Committees appointed this day by the Congressional Conventions of the 22d and 23d Districts in relation to the appointment of a County Executive Committee, beg leave to report:

That they met the Committee of the first named Congressional Convention, and they with us hereby report:

That for the purposes aforesaid we recommend that the Chairmen of the said three several conventions with the said three several Committees, shall meet at the call of your Chairman, and shall appoint an efficient County Executive Committee to convene upon the order of said joint Committee, for the transaction of business and perfecting the organization of the party for the Presidential campaign.

T. J. CRAIG,
HUGH LEE,
HUGH MCNEILL,
W. B. NEGLEY,
JOHN H. STEWART.

The report was adopted as read, and the Chairman of the Convention announced that, in pursuance of the terms of the report, the committees would please meet at his office, on Fourth street, on Saturday afternoon next, at three o'clock.

The Convention then passed a unanimous vote of thanks to their chairman, and adjourned at eight o'clock.

Birmingham Councils—Regular Monthly Meeting.

The Councils of the Borough of Birmingham held a regular monthly meeting in the office of Burgess Salisbury on Tuesday evening, June 2d, 1868.

The Clerk called the roll and the following members answered to their names: Messrs. Ihmsen, McIlwaine, Ward, Welker, Malone, Rebman and Burgess Salisbury, who occupied the chair.

Mr. Ihmsen, from the Finance Committee, reported that they had examined the monthly accounts of the borough officers and found them to be correct.

Mr. Welker, chairman of the Street Committee, reported that several sewer drops in the borough were in bad condition. The committee were instructed to make the necessary repairs.

The Burgess presented the following bills, and on motion warrants were ordered to be drawn for the payment of the same:

Duplicate book for tax Collector	$ 2 25
For cleaning and renovating Council rooms	13 74
Republican, (newspaper)	3 00
J. Carr & Co., for building sewer	85 87
F. Forle, Borough Constable	50 00
D. Doran, Street Commissioner	250 00
H. Husted, night watch	62 00
James Smith, night watch	62 00

Mr. McIlwaine moved that the citizens of Center street be allowed to erect a sewer on the street to drain their cellars, the work to be done under the supervision of the Street Commissioner. Adopted.

On motion of Mr. Welker, Thomas Edwards was allowed to construct a sewer from his premises on Washington street to the main sewer.

A petition was presented for a gas lamp at the corner of Washington and Franklin streets.

Also one at the corner of Center and Washington streets, and the mouth of Union alley and Washington street.

On motion of Mr. McIlwaine, the prayer of the petitioners was granted and the lamps ordered to be erected.

The Burgess read a communication from A. McGonnigle in reference to a borough bond held by him, and which had been lost or mislaid, and asking that Councils would issue another bond, or issue a warrant for the payment of the old one. On motion the matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

The Burgess then read several proposals of parties, for the grading, paving and curbing of a number of streets in the borough.

Mr. Ihmsen moved that the proposals be referred to the Street Committee with power to act. Adopted.

Mr. Malone moved that a gas lamp be placed on the corner of McKee and Washington street. Adopted.

Mr. Ward moved that Breed street be graded and paved from Denman street to Union alley. Adopted.

Mr. Welker moved that the Burgess be authorized to notify Mr. Keeling to put Mary Ann street in a passable condition.

Mr. McIlwaine moved that the Conference Committee be instructed to go on and pave Harmony street, in conjunction with the committee from the borough of East Birmingham. Adopted.

On motion adjourned.

THE ALLEGHENY SCHOOLS.

Meeting of the Board of Control—Reports of Local Boards and Committees—Vacation of Schools, Etc.

A monthly meeting of the Board of Controllers of the Allegheny City Public Schools was held last evening in the Common Council chamber, in City Hall. In the absence of the President, on motion of Mr. Brown, R. C. Loomis, Esq., was called to the chair.

The roll was called, when the following members answered: Messrs. Barr, Brown, John Jr., Brown, John K., Boyle, Borland, Crowther, Dunlap, Eaton, Francis, Grouard, Kollock, Kimball, King, Loomis, Lea, Lockhart, Mussler, Pitcairn, Swift, Shea and Thorn.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The reports of the Visiting Committees were read and accepted.

Mr. Kollock presented the report of the Committee on Evening Schools, from which it appears that there are 1,079 pupils enrolled, of which 847 are males and 232 are females. The total amount paid to teachers during the month was $1,498.

Accompanying the report was a resolution providing that children under twelve years of age should not be admitted to the night schools.

A motion was made to amend the resolution by making the age of ten instead of twelve years requisite for admission to schools, which was lost.

On motion, the report was then accepted and the resolution reported by the Committee adopted.

Mr. Swift presented a partial report of the Special Committee on Rules, in which the Committee provide for the appointment of the usual Committees and define their duties.

The report was received and the Committee continued.

On motion of Mr. Francis, the report was then taken up and adopted.

Mr. Eaton moved that the Committee on Colored Schools be authorized to purchase a melodeon for the use of Colored Schools.

Mr. Rea moved that the matter be referred to the Committee on Colored Schools with power to act. Adopted.

Mr. Francis read a communication from James Purnell residing near the line between the Fourth and Eighth Wards, asking that his children be allowed to attend the Fourth Ward School. Referred to the Local Board of the Fourth Ward.

Mr. Kollock moved that the public schools of the city close on the last Friday of June, and open again on the last Monday of August—allowing the pupils a vacation of nine weeks. Adopted.

A bill was presented S. Hopkins & Co., for $5 50 for coal furnished, and a warrant ordered to be drawn on the Treasury.

The Board then adjourned.

BASE BALL.

The Game Yesterday—Athletics vs. Allegheny—The Former Victorious—Score 27 to 18.

The match game of base ball between the celebrated Athletic Club, of Philadelphia, and the Allegheny Club, of this city, the champions of this vicinity, took place yesterday afternoon at the Union Park, Allegheny, and was very interesting. The game was witnessed by a large number of spectators, and was more warmly contested than that on the previous day. The Athletics came out victorious, but the Allegheny boys succeeded in making a cleaner score than the Olympics on the day before, coming out but nine runs behind. The following is the score:

ATHLETIC.	O.	R.	ALLEGHENY.	O.	R.
Reach, 2d b	3	3	Reinhart, l f	2	4
McBride, p	4	2	Erwin, 1st b	2	4
Radcliffe, c	3	4	Foran, 2d b	1	3
Wilkins, s s	3	4	Bryan, s s	3	1
Fisler, 1st b	2	5	Brodey, p	5	0
Berry, 3d b	4	2	Crocher, r f	2	2
Cuthbert, l f	2	3	Ralston, c f	3	2
Sensenderfer, c f	4	3	Nichol, 3d b	5	1
Shaffer, r f	2	1	Lynch, c	4	1

RUNS IN EACH INNING.

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9—Total.
Athletic	8	1	0	3	2	6	2	2	3—27.
Allegheny	2	0	2	0	1	3	0	3	7—18.

Umpire—Henry Arden, of the Cincinnati Base Ball Club.

Scorers—For Athletics, E. K. Hayhurst; for Allegheny, R. Elton.

Time of Game—Two hours and forty-five minutes.

Chaplain Little—Crooks' Division Army West Virginia.

To the Editor of the Commercial:

If there are any among your readers who were in Crook's Division of the Army of West Virginia, either as officers or soldiers, you will, perhaps, confer a favor upon them by saying that Chaplain Little, of the 5th West Virginia Infantry, is in the city and will be at the Sunday School Convention now in session at the Second Presbyterian Church, on Penn street, Dr. Howard's, to-day and to-morrow. His old music box is expected this morning, and to be in service at some time during the sessions of the Convention. In the place of the old hymns, written with a camel's hair pencil on paste board, extemporized of old newspapers, the chaplain has a beautiful new printed sheet that his old regiment, at any rate, will be glad to see, Sunday school convention though it be. I hope the chaplain will be invited to sing once more "Johnny Comes Marching Home," or "My Heavenly Home," and to tell something of what he saw near Winchester, and in a hundred other battles or skirmishes, as well as at Libby.

If the Chaplain did not see the "Charge of the Six Hundred," he saw the charge of Col. Schoonmaker, where somebody blundered, either in sending him, or else in failing to send him proper support in his march with his command to almost certain and yet objectless death.

THE COUNTY WORK HOUSE.—Messrs. Barr & Moser, architects, advertise for proposals for the cast and wrought iron work required for the County Work House. The work consists of cast eave gutters, roof truss bolts, beams and corrugated sheet iron ceilings, bedsteads, &c. Separate bids will be received for the different branches of the work. The plans and specifications and all necessary information can be seen and had at Barr & Moser's, St. Clair street. The proposals are to be left with Mr. Geo Albree, Secretary of the Board of Managers, corner Fourth and Wood streets.

THE TARENTUM CAMP GROUNDS.—The board of trustees of the Tarentum Camp Ground, will hold a meeting in the church at Tarentum, on to-morrow (Thursday) morning, at nine o'clock. Business of importance will come before the meeting, and a full attendance of the trustees is desirable. Arrangements have been made with the Allegheny Valley Railroad for excursion tickets for those going to the meeting. Trains leave at 7 A. M.

RECOVERING.—The youth Isaac Y. Little who attempted suicide about a week ago, by shooting himself through the right lung, and who was removed to the Homoeopathic Hospital is still living, and it is thought that he will recover. The means adopted to subdue inflammation have thus far proved entirely successful, and his condition is much more favorable than it was a few days ago.

COMMISSION OF THE CITY SUPERINTENDENT.—Prof. G. J. Luckey, who was recently elected City Superintendent of the common schools, yesterday received his commission from Governor Geary. The commission dated back to June 1st, and will expire June 1st, 1869. Mr. Luckey will immediately enter upon his duties.

Another Testimonial of Skill.

I have been troubled with a very severe pain in the stomach. I have tried nearly everything I heard of, but could not get permanent relief, but since I began Dr. Aborn's medicine I feel nearly as well as ever. I have not felt so well for years. I have gained very much in flesh, at least ten pounds within one month.

The Daily Commercial

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3, 1868.

THE COMMERCIAL is the largest daily paper in the State, and gives daily one-fourth more reading than any other paper in Pittsburgh. It is the only Pittsburgh paper that uses the telegraph liberally, gives full market reports, and all the news of the day.

As proof of the estimate placed on the market reports of the COMMERCIAL, we will state that they are regularly copied by the New York Economist, Shipping List, Iron Age, and other papers of this character in that and other cities, and that leading English commercial papers and circulars regularly express them with credit. There is within five hundred miles, hardly an Iron Factory, Oil Refinery, or leading manufactory of any kind that is not a subscriber to the COMMERCIAL, principally, because its reports are the only full and reliable given of the Pittsburgh markets.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY—ALFRED L. PEARSON.

COUNTY CONTROLLER—HENRY LAMBERT.

COUNTY COMMISSIONER—JONATHAN NEELEY.

COUNTY SURVEYOR—R. L. McCULLY.

DIRECTOR OF POOR—J. G. MURRAY.

If one half of what the Canada papers say be true, the Fenians are soon to be on the war path again. Over the border great excitement prevails, but we apprehend that our friends in the Dominion are unnecessarily scared.

THE Philadelphia Telegraph in an article referring to the proposed arrangement between the Pennsylvania Central and Fort Wayne Railroad Companies, felicitates itself that one of the results will be that "Philadelphia will fully maintain, in spite of the exertions of rival cities, all her natural advantages for internal trade with every portion of the great West." It is a delightful state of existence that makes Philadelphia blind to the Allentown and West Philadelphia cut offs, whereby her trade by the Central is gradually diminishing, and New York has been made the point to which the Central is aiming.

THE Republican Congressional Convention for the Twenty-third District, composed of delegates from the districts of Allegheny county lying north of the Allegheny river, yesterday declared for the re-nomination of Hon. THOMAS WILLIAMS, and appointed conferees in his interest to meet with similar conferees from Armstrong and Butler counties. The Convention present Mr. WILLIAMS for re-nomination because of his superior qualifications for the office, and trust that he may be taken by the other counties without reference to the question of locality. Armstrong and Butler counties, whose conventions will be held in the course of three weeks, each present two candidates and respectively claim the nomination.

THE COUNTY TICKET.

The Republican County Convention did its work well yesterday. The ticket is decidedly a strong one, and will command the undivided support of the party—thus securing its election by one of the largest majorities ever cast in the county.

Hon. JAMES L. GRAHAM, who has served two terms in the State Senate, heads the ticket. A unanimous renomination is the highest endorsement which he could have desired at the hands of his constituents.

The Assembly ticket is unexceptionable. Hon. GEORGE WILSON, who has served two terms in the House, was re-nominated by a flattering vote. His character as a legislator stands deservedly high, and he will be a prominent candidate for the Speakership at the next session, a position which he is well qualified to fill. MILES S. HUMPHREYS is a new man, never having been called to fill any public position heretofore. He is an intelligent gentleman, and a worthy representative of the working classes, having charge of one of our largest manufacturing establishments. VINCENT MILLER is a hard-fisted farmer, and a gentleman honored and esteemed by his neighbors for his integrity and capability. He has never mixed in politics, and it was with difficulty that his friends could obtain his consent to become a candidate. He will doubtless make for himself a creditable record in the Legislature. JAMES TAYLOR is a well known business man of this city, and is largely engaged in the tobacco trade. He has represented his ward in the City Councils, and has the utmost confidence of his fellow citizens, and has the ability to make a good representative. Capt. SAMUEL KERR is one of our oldest citizens, and is extensively known throughout the county. He has never held political position, although he has always taken an active part in politics. He is a new man, but will make an efficient member. Major GEORGE F. MORGAN is a young man, zealous and energetic, and represents the soldiers' interest on the Assembly ticket. He entered the service in the 155th Regiment as a non-commissioned officer, and rose to the rank of Brevet Major.

GEN. A. L. PEARSON, our candidate for District Attorney, is a native of this city, and a young man of good ability. He was liberally educated, and was admitted to the bar some seven or eight years ago. After the war commenced he recruited Company A for the 155th Regiment, Col. E. J. ALLEN, and entered the service as Captain, in August, 1862. In December following, he was promoted to Major; and in July, 1863, was commissioned Lieutenant Colonel, and in August following was made Colonel of his Regiment. In September, 1864, he was appointed Brevet Brigadier General, and during the remainder of his service, which terminated June 2d, 1865, he had command of a brigade. He was subsequently brevetted Major General of Volunteers for gallant and meritorious conduct. He is now Commander of the Department of Pennsylvania, in the Grand Army of the Republic. He will fill the office of District Attorney with credit, ability and fidelity.

J. H. FLACK, Esq., who is nominated for Assistant District Attorney, is also a young man, but possessed of that energy and industry which are the main requisites to success. He was appointed Deputy District Attorney under Col. DUFF, the present incumbent, and has had considerable experience in preparing bills and transacting the business of the Grand Jury room.

HENRY LAMBERT, who has so ably filled the office of County Controller ever since its creation, has been honored with a unanimous renomination. It is unnecessary to say that the county could not well dispense with the services of one so faithful to its interests.

JONATHAN NEELEY, our nominee for County Commissioner, has filled the office for two terms, and his re-nomination is a fitting endorsement of his official record.

J. G. MURRAY, the candidate for Director of the Poor, is a well known citizen, and fully qualified to guard the interests of the County Home.

R. L. McCULLY, the candidate for County Surveyor, is well suited for the position, and will make an acceptable officer.

We commend the ticket as every way worthy the hearty and undivided support of the Republican party of Allegheny county.

GRANT'S ACCEPTANCE OF THE NOMINATION.

"Let us have peace" says GRANT in the close of his epigrammatic letter accepting the nomination of the Republican Convention. Peace is what the nation pants for; is the desideratum of the time. For the realization of that coveted period the great Union party turns to GRANT, and he puts into four words the wishes of the people. The letter of acceptance is brief, terse, and characteristic. General GRANT accepts the resolutions of the Chicago Convention, and by that acceptance plants himself squarely with the Republican party. There is no halting; no construction of sentences to entangle; but an open, frank confession that the proceedings of the Convention "express the feeling of the great mass of those who sustained the country through its trial." The resolutions are indorsed; therefore General GRANT is in harmony with the Convention, and the Convention in harmony with General GRANT.

Acceptance of nomination and intention after election, stand in juxtaposition, judging the future by the past, so that it is essential we should understand GRANT's intentions by his declaration. He has no policy to enforce, unless that policy is dictated by the people, who, in Democratic governments, are the source of all power, and of whose welfare the President is the guardian and protector. If GRANT is President—and of that there is no doubt—it will be his "endeavor to administer all the laws in good faith, with economy, and with the view of giving peace and protection everywhere."

In a single declaration of that kind there is perfect confidence. GRANT as the nominee—the President in prospective, the virtual President to-day in the minds of the majority of the American people, starts not forth with idiosyncratic blundering as to "my policy," but shows himself, if elected, as the servant of the people to execute the laws in their name and for their benefit. We challenge the world to find a better and nobler administration of the laws than seeking to give "peace, quiet and protection everywhere." Laws were made for the protection of the good against the lawless and profane; and when laws are, as they should be, the perfection of human wisdom, their administration to give "peace, quiet and protection everywhere" necessitates the existence of a Chief Magistrate ready at all hazards to "be just and fear not."

In a sentence General GRANT mirrors the fatal blundering of the past. The time-server full of pith and moment. Treason gyrates laughingly, ready to wound but afraid to strike, devising manifold exigencies of embarrassment and asking for impossibilities. "In times like the present," says he, "it is impossible or at least eminently improper, to lay down a policy to be adhered to, right or wrong, through an administration of four years," unless "to administer all the laws in good faith, with economy, and with a view of giving peace, quiet and protection everywhere."

And why not a policy? Why not Johnsonian, Napoleonic, Cromwellian? Because General GRANT, being the elect of the people, respects the will of the people. In this critical period of our history, when "new political issues not foreseen are constantly arising," and the phases of old ones changing, an administrative officer "should always be left free to execute the will of the people." There can be no higher or nobler aspiration in a Republican form of Government than to execute the will of the people. Not the will of one man; not the shadow of one lion-will enchaining a nation; not "my policy," right or wrong, but the will of the people.

What will come from the will of the people? What is the natural order of inquiry in this connection? The man ready to do the will of the people must love the people. GRANT has always respected that, and says emphatically, always shall. From the people comes political power, and by executing the will of the people comes "peace and universal prosperity," for the will of the people is "economy of administration, the burden of taxation lightening, and the reduction of the national debt."

"Let us have peace;" so says General GRANT; and he points clearly how that peace can be obtained. The letter is a manly declaration. It is short, to the purpose and presents the man of action and high resolve conspicuously before the nation. With such a leader we shall have victory and peace.

THE NATIONAL TRIBUTE.

Comparative trifles make up the character of men and women. Philosophers arrive at correct estimate of people by studying apparent trifles. The woman who treasures the memory of a lost child or husband, and who decorates a grave with flowers, is not likely to be false to great principles. She who treasures a lock of hair, and connects herself by sweet deeds with lives that are in the infinite, is likely to do duty bravely in the world of trials that await all the faithful. And in the similitude of woman, the loving and true, God's highest and noblest gift, it is proper to speak of a nation, which in its phases of majestic beauty keeps solemn memory of those who fell by decorating their graves with spring flowers, emblems of that immortality, the petal of individual and national greatness.

From all parts of the country come accounts of the decoration with flowers of the graves of those who fell or died in the service during the war. MIRABEAU said, "Let me fall asleep to the sound of sweet music; let me breathe sweet perfumes and crown me with flowers." Thousands of our heroes fell asleep amid the thunder of cannon and the roar of battle. The earth was stained with blood, and the groans of the dying rose wailing to Heaven. The heart of the nation was stirred; men gave their lives willingly, and in dying gave the greatest possible sacrifice for the safety of the nation.

Now that war has passed, and peace, sweet peace, again blesses the land, the nation remembers the fallen ones as tenderly as the mother keeps alive the memory of her departed child. The mother goes to the little grave, calls to mind the sweet smiles of the dead, forgets the long hours of watchfulness when the child was sick, and only remembers the passages of beauty as she typifies her love with fresh flowers. That woman is safe in her love. She is building up a higher and nobler life and paving the present for a great future she cannot comprehend.

The manifestation of tenderness on the part of the people, like that we are now noticing, speaks of a deep well of tenderness in the nation. The love of dollars has not obliterated sentiment. The nation, as it were, went out to do homage to the illustrious dead. Fresh spring flowers, tokens of immortality and peace, decorated the spots where the ashes of our heroes rest. It was a glorious sight, speaking eloquently for the sentiment of the nation, and should become a yearly custom, as sacred and full of meaning as the Jewish Passover, by which that people celebrate their deliverance from Egyptian bondage.

THE resignation of Secretary McCulloch is again rumored, but the probability is there is to be no such good news. It may to some seem a harsh thing to say, but it is not probable that the whisky ring, which revolves round the Department, can spare him yet. A proper sense of duty and an increasing scandal relative to his Department should cause him to delay his resignation not a day.

GENERAL NEGLEY.

The Convention of the Republican party in the Twenty-Second Congressional District yesterday had an easy task. The preliminary expression of the people had been so overwhelmingly in favor of Major General JAMES S. NEGLEY that all there was to do was to ratify it, which was done by acclamation, after the letter of Mr. HOWARD withdrawing his name was read.

So well is our candidate known to the entire population of the district, that not even a single word is necessary touching his character and qualifications. He was raised here. Here he volunteered for two wars, in both of which he won distinction, coming out of the last with the highest honors. The Republican party in conferring on him high civil honors and responsibilities have again recognized the services of our soldiers, and made another payment on the immense debt of gratitude which is their due. Thousands outside of the District, who served with our candidate in the field, will be honored by his nomination, and accept the action of the Republicans of Allegheny as proof of genuine appreciation of what is due to them, and a fitting reward of gallant services dating from the very first of the war.

With the varied and important interests of this district Gen. NEGLEY is perfectly familiar, and in Congress they will receive his constant attention and watchful care. Of his election there can be no doubt, and he will enter Congress at a most interesting period, when great questions will demand his attention, and afford an opportunity for the display of those qualities of head and heart which have made him the chosen favorite of his party at home.

DISRAELI'S LAST MOVE.

The cable yesterday morning informed the American public that DISRAELI had written a letter to GLADSTONE, stating that he withdrew all opposition to the bill proposing the disestablishment of the Irish Church; but beyond the meagre announcement we were left in doubt what course the wily diplomatist intends to pursue. The action of DISRAELI on the last Reform Bill may afford some clue to his future intentions. When GLADSTONE proposed his bill, reducing the franchise qualification from ten pounds in boroughs and fifty pounds in counties, to seven pounds in boroughs and fourteen pounds in counties, DISRAELI led the tory force in opposition, and the majority in favor of GLADSTONE was so small that he was compelled to resign. GLADSTONE, early in that memorable struggle, with the consent of Lord JOHN RUSSELL, Premier of the Whig Cabinet, announced that the administration would stand or fall by the measure. When Lord DERBY took the reins of power, DISRAELI, as the leader in the Commons, announced a policy as new as it was startling. He said that the Ministry held power only to carry out the wishes of the House of Commons, and he forthwith proposed to proceed by way of resolution. The fourteen resolutions that this astute genius placed before the House of Commons reminded the people of that old distich:

> "Strange, such a difference there should be,
> Between tweedledum and tweedledee."

And as the fight increased, he asked the opposition to propose what they wanted, and if the House was in the humor they would adopt it. The result of this strategy was the passing of the new Reform Bill, which, with a few objections, is more liberal than that on which the Whigs were defeated. The policy was new. If the Whigs had objected, the people would have said that they would not do good when they might, and thus they were forced to do what they had professed for more than thirty years they desired to do.

After the passing of the English Reform Bill, there remained the Scotch and Irish Reform Bills, which it was and is essential that DISRAELI should complete. He knew when he took office that he had not a working majority; he knew that any great question might place him and his ministry hors de combat, and his words of bitter taunt, that a grievance of the age of seven centuries should be reserved for his ministry, will be long remembered. At first DISRAELI invoked the slumbering bigotry of the Church party, but was unfortunate in rousing the suspicion of the High Church party. Previously he had declared for the via media in church polity; not "High Church" or "Low Church," but a church connected with the State that was dignified and the expression of popular consent. Had a dissenter lead on the opposition, DISRAELI would have achieved a victory; for all the forces of the Church would have united against the heterodoxy of dissent. But GLADSTONE was a churchman; the Whig forces that he led were in the main churchmen, and aided by the dissenters, they formed a phalanx it was impossible to withstand. Even the Orangemen were divided; their aid was of doubtful cast, and, consequently, DISRAELI was compelled to resign or assume his old position of Minister to do the will of Parliament. DISRAELI hastened to the Queen, laid his resignation before her, which she would not accept. By one of those unaccountable freaks in the fancy of Sovereign ladies the author and political adventurer had risen to high honor and favor. The MORDECAI, who had sat at the gate, was in great repute. With audacity consonant with his character, he hinted to the House of Commons that he was a favorite of Her Majesty, and GLADSTONE retaliated on the unconstitutional method of heralding the favor of a monarch for a particular Minister in the face of a majority sufficient to drive a Cabinet ignominiously from power. Then came the threat of dissolution; the fear of the expenses of a general election, and that too with a certainty of a second general election in a few months, when the new constituencies had existence. All these devices failed. The Dissenters were aroused; the Catholics, seeing their political importance, gave assent to views they did not believe, and then, with effrontery and daring, the man who has led the tory Squirearchy of England, and who has climbed by their aid to the highest position, writes to his political foe that further opposition is useless. The letter signifies that DISRAELI is as willing as GLADSTONE to disestablish the Irish Church; that the party he leads will do the work and take the loaves and fishes.

> "When the Devil was sick, the Devil a Saint would be;
> When the Devil was well, the devil a Saint was he."

Judged by political life, the phase which DISRAELI assumes is novel. He virtually says that a Minister should have no opinions of his own, but should be willing to do what a Parliament demands. He is a Minister without a policy so long as he can keep his place, and that he will keep, unless something unforeseen arises, until the appeal to the country through the extension of the franchise. THOMAS CARLYLE says what DISRAELI is honest amongst scoundrels, for that he admits he is a scoundrel, and seeks not by honeyed words to hide his intention.

We may, therefore, expect, in that great change now taking place in the old world, to see the tories who passed a Reform Bill, against which they warred until they could do so no longer, disestablishing the Irish Church, for the continuance of which they have secretly aided Orange Societies and sowed the seeds of bitterness in national parties; we may see them goaded to work reforms they have professed to dread, and changing with the times into forced and moderate reformers. The news shows the progress of the age. We may complain of the inconsistency and exclaim, O tempora, O mores, but truth advances, and the revolutionist of early life, the tory of mature age, and the favored plebeian, who has been chosen to lead the aristocratic forces, may become the agent of the most stupendous reforms slow paced old England has seen.

THE Democratic organs don't like General Grant's replies to committees waiting on him relative to his nomination. This is natural enough. They never did like either what he said or did. Both were equally distasteful to them and the rebels. Buckner did not like the letter he wrote to him on a certain occasion which contained a decided intimation about unconditional surrender, an unpleasantness for which the rebels never forgave Grant. The way of our General in saying little and doing much has given offense to rebels and Democrats in general. This accounts for their course, and they are entitled to the benefit of the explanation.

> "Ale! 'Tis smooth as oil, sweet as milk, clear as amber. * * * * I have fed purely upon ale; I have eat my ale, drank my ale, and I always sleep upon ale. [illegible]
> —Old Play.

The use of stimulants appears to be general amongst the nations of the earth, civilized and barbarous. The large consumption of distilled spirits, wines, beer, tea, coffee and tobacco, shows this desire to be so universal that it is scarcely inappropriate to call it a natural appetite. But there is a wide difference between the use of these stimulants as beverages, upon national habits. Recently we observed an account, in a medical journal, of the evil effects resulting from the seductive influences of a poisonous beverage lately introduced in Paris "which produces neither the heavy drunkenness of beer, the furious inebriation of brandy, nor the exhilarant intoxication of wine, but, like an ignoble poison, destroys life only after its votaries are brutalized, or rendered idiotic, and which numbers among its most ardent lovers literary men, professors, statesmen, warriors, artists, actors, financiers, speculators, shopkeepers and even elegant women." This beverage (absinthe,) we regret to state was introduced in this country a number of years since. We have witnessed the evil effects resulting from an indulgence in this maddening drink (distilled from a number of aromatic plants,) and at once came to the conclusion that it was worse than bad brandy, logwood wine and strychnine whisky mixed together. One would naturally think that the impulsive, hot-brained French might dispense with either brandy or absinthe, and, like the Germans, resort to mild drinks. The latter are recognized throughout the world as a thrifty, industrious, ingenious people, eminently social, intelligent and well versed in all the arts which make civilization, enhance peace or sustain war. In literature, science, art, music, they are alike famous. In almost every branch of learning and culture they have, in modern times, sent forth some of the leading and representative men. They are a healthy people, capable of enduring extraordinary mental and physical fatigue, and, even in our own country, afford a striking and sensible commentary on the inutility and injustice of thoughtlessly rigid liquor laws. The Germans drink frequently, but from the peculiarity of the beverage, receive only a suitable and sustaining exhilaration of mind and body—they do not become intoxicated. "In Bavaria," according to Bayard Taylor, "beer has become an imperative necessity to the working classes, who content themselves with meat only on holidays, provided they can at all times get their usual quantity of beer (a gallon per diem.) In Bavaria beer is drunk for and at breakfast; for and at dinner; takes the place of coffee in the afternoon, and is poured down at supper." Yet the evidence is multiplied on every hand that drunkenness is very rare throughout Germany, and especially in beer making, beer drinking Bavaria. This is to be accounted for from the fact that the amount of spirit in common beer is less than two per cent., the best ale yielding from four to eight per cent.

Malt liquor has been pronounced by high medical authority "not only an innocent but a nutritious beverage." Owing to these and many other reasons, we are not surprised when we find the advocates of temperance favoring the use of light wines and malt liquors in the United States in lieu of the spirituous liquors, the free use of which, it must be admitted, occasions domestic misery, pauperism and crime. Its hideous statistics have been collected from prisons, almshouses, and hospitals. Therefore, when we turn to the agricultural reports extending over the last twenty eight years, and observe the tremendous strides made in hop culture and the growth of barley in the same period,* not to speak of the immense grain within the last few years to the culture of grapes, we have grounds to believe that a reform may, and we trust will be effected in this country in favor of healthful and comparatively mild drinks. In inaugurating this reform, Pittsburgh is destined to play no unimportant part. During the last thirty years Pittsburgh has been celebrated for the manufacture of a superior quality of ale.†

Throughout the West and Northwest, Pittsburgh ale is as much in demand as Pittsburgh glass. We have seen, on the very verge of civilization, a favorite brand of Pittsburgh ale heralded with all the pomp and force inherent in Indian paint, and (what was still more surprising) proved the truthfulness of the novel advertisement.

Pittsburgh numbers fifty breweries, six of which are devoted exclusively to the business of manufacturing ale. A single establishment,

THE PITTSBURGH BREWERY,

Has a malting capacity of one hundred and twenty thousand bushels of barley per annum, and capacity for brewing thirty thousand barrels of ale.‡ We presume there are few of our readers who require to be told what articles are employed in the manufacture of ale; at the same time, we are convinced that the fewest number have any idea of the various processes the barley and hops passes through, or the time and labor required to transform them into ale. For the benefit of this class, we will describe, in a brief manner, what we saw at the Pittsburgh Brewery recently.

Before commencing the process of brewing, it is necessary to convert the barley into malt. This is effected in from ten to thirteen days, in the following manner: 1. The barley is steeped in six large steeping tubs, holding three hundred bushels each, from forty-eight to seventy-two hours, or until the grain is rendered soft. 2. The water is drained off, the grain conveyed to the couching rooms, and spread over the floor in beds to the depth of four to six inches, and permitted to sprout. 3. During this process the grain is turned repeatedly by the maltster with a wooden shovel in order to secure a uniform growth. 4. When, in the opinion of the maltster, the grain has sprouted sufficiently, it is spread over the floor of a kiln, and thoroughly dried, when it is termed malt.

The process of brewing involves—1. Grinding the malt. 2. Washing, or infusing the malt with hot water. 3. Boiling the liquor (or wort) thus produced with hops. 4. Straining the wort (now termed ale.) 5. Cooling. 6. Fermenting. 7. Clearing the ale. Upon entering the establishment, after observing the rapidity with which the barley was elevated to the steeping tubs (at the rate of three hundred bushels in twenty minutes) we visited

THE MALT HOUSE,

A seven storied brick building, sixty feet wide by one hundred and twenty deep. The floors in this building (termed growing floors,) are composed of cement and are perfectly smooth. The floors are sustained by the heaviest locust posts we have ever seen. Adjoining the growing floors, and forming an L with the main building, we found the kilns, three in number, forty feet square. Directly through the centres of the kilns, we observed a stack, or chimney, which serves the double purpose of conveying heat to, and carrying off the steam from the kilns. The floors of these kilns are composed of iron and earthenware, prepared with small holes, through which the heat is distributed in an equal manner. The use of these kilns will be better understood when we explain that, when the grain begins to germinate, the starchy matter common to all grains is converted from a mucilaginous substance (which, though easily dissolved in water, is unfermentable) into a fermentable sugar. The experienced maltster, as he turns the grains at intervals notes carefully the appearance of the sprout, or acrospire, at which juncture the grain possesses the curious property alluded to, when it is necessary to check the vitality of the grain immediately; to accomplish which it is removed to the kilns, the high temperature of which also deprives the saccharine starch of its gelatinous character, and facilitates the action of the hot water in the process of mashing. When the grain is thoroughly dried, it is elevated to the malt room, stored in bins, or conveyed to

THE MALT MILL,

Where it is ground into a coarse powder between two iron rollers, which, placed above each other, crush the malt at the rate of one hundred and fifty bushels per hour. From the mill the malt is elevated to

THE MASH-TUN,

A large vat or tub, with a capacity of four hundred bushels, and which has a double bottom, the upper one (composed of iron) containing a number of holes, with a space between the upper and lower bottoms of about three inches. When the malt is thrown in the mash-tun, water is introduced between the upper and lower bottoms from a steam tub at a high temperature. In introducing the hot water two steam tubs, each holding one hundred and fifty barrels, are employed. After emptying one of these into the mash-tun, the cover is placed over the latter, and the malt permitted to steep, when the second tub is emptied into it, and the malt and water (now termed liquor,) agitated by a "rake" constructed in the following manner: A series of semi-circular iron rods about two feet long, with a number of short pieces of iron attached at right angles, (forming the teeth,) are fastened around a shaft in a spiral form, extending from the centre to the edge of the mash-tun. This shaft when in motion revolves continually, giving the malt and liquor a rotary movement. After it is agitated so as to completely dissolve the sugar, the mash-tun is again covered up, and the whole permitted to stand a number of hours, when the liquor (now termed wort,) is drawn off into

THE KETTLE.

The latter, which is made of two thicknesses of heavy copper, holds about three hundred barrels. Beneath the kettle is a large furnace. Immediately above it, and at one side of the kettle, is the hop tub or steamer, a huge wooden cylinder, in which the hops are steamed previous to their introduction to the kettle, where they are boiled with the wort from two to three hours. The quantity of hops used varies with the quality of the ale, the season, temperature, &c. After the wort has boiled a sufficient length of time, the brewer salts it, tests it with an instrument termed a saccharometer, and adds a little Irish moss in order to clear it. [Previous to our visit to this establishment we supposed ale required as little salt as tea or coffee.] When the mixture becomes clear it is drawn off into

THE HOP-BACK.

The hop-back is a large L shaped wooden compartment about two and a half feet deep, capable of holding about one hundred and fifty barrels. Extending across the side of the smaller end of the compartment, a strainer composed of wire separates the refuse hops from the wort, which, passing into the large side of the compartment in the form of ale, is strained a second time on its passage to

THE COOLER.

The ale manufactured in this establishment is cooled in a patent cooler, the invention of a Frenchman named Baudelot. This cooler is composed of a continuous pipe bent in a series of S's, and placed upright, over which the ale, fresh from the hop-back, falls incessantly in a myriad of drops, trickling from the upper to the lower end of the pipe in a constant stream, clear at the top, glistening in its descent, capped with foam at the bottom, where it falls in a trough. Inside the pipe a stream of cold water keeps the latter at an even temperature. From the cooler the ale is next conveyed to

THE FERMENTING TUNS.

In passing over the cooler, the brewer regulates the temperature of the latter, keeping it at the point where he desires fermentation to begin. When the ale is drawn off into the fermenting tuns, a small quantity of yeast is added, in order to start the fermentation, during which process a portion of the sugar in the ale is converted into alcohol. The fermentation is caused by the action of the yeast upon the starch. The ale enters the fermenting tun at a saccharine gravity of twenty and thirty. During the fermentation, about five per cent. of alcohol is secured, displacing a similar proportion of saccharine matter. We counted three tuns in the fermenting rooms, each with a capacity of one hundred and fifty barrels. It is here that the judgment of the brewer is constantly exercised. When the active fermentation is over, the head formed on the liquor in the tun, if left to itself, would subside; the effervescence would cease; the liquor become transparent; but in a short time acetous fermentation would commence, when the contents of the tun would be converted into vinegar. To prevent which it is racked off into

THE PUNCHEONS.

In racking the ale into the puncheons the alcohol, the aroma, and bitterness of the hop, and the carbonic acid is retained, at the same time the ale is cleansed from the small particles of yeast which float through the fermenting tuns. We counted five setts of puncheons in the cellar, the largest of which holds ten, and the smallest five barrels of ale. These puncheons are placed in a row upon an immense trough, filled with the ale, and the bung-holes left open in order to permit the yeast to flow into the receiving troughs. This purifying process completes the process of brewing. From the puncheons the ale is drawn off into barrels, tightly bunged down, and stored away in the vault.

The brewery is five stories high, one hundred and twenty feet front by one one hundred and thirty-five feet deep, with storage for three thousand barrels of ale. Opposite the brewery and adjoining the malt house we found

THE COOPER SHOP,

In which a number of hands were engaged in the occupation of adjusting new hoops, and driving old ones upon the barrels, which forms no trifling item in this establishment. Upon turning to enter the main building again, we observed near the cooler already described an artesian well, one hundred and twenty feet deep, which supplies the establishment with cold water during the summer season, enabling the proprietors to dispense with ice, and the cost and inconvenience of handling the same. At a little distance from the well, a workman was engaged in washing barrels, drawing the water used from a tub or vat with a capacity of one hundred and fifty barrels. Brewers are proverbially prodigal of water; judging from their practice, cleanliness is reckoned first among their list of virtues. Anything cleaner, or more thoroughly systematized than this establishment it would be extremely difficult to find.

In conclusion, we may add that the establishment occupies precisely half a square, and furnishes constant employment to fifty men and five double teams.

It is creditable to Speaker Colfax that he repudiated the idea of opening the private letters of Wooley—the contumacious witness—coming into his hands, and declared he would not do it even under the order of the House. There are some things which a truly honorable man instinctively recoils from, and will not do under any circumstances. The following is an extract from the proceedings of the House:

The Speaker—Will Mr. Butler state his proposition?

Mr. Butler—I mean to move that no telegrams or letters shall be sent to witness after he has contemned the House, except after inspection by the Speaker.

The Speaker did not see that he had the right to open anything in a sealed envelope, even by order of the House.

Mr. Butler—I suppose that the Speaker could do so by order of the House.

The Speaker—Not even by order of the House.

THE following account of a conversation between General Grant and Governor Curtin is in circulation:

"Why do you like the Methodists, General?" finally asked Curtin.

"Because their religion is one of hard knocks. They take hold of a man and never let him drop on it; they have either converted him or scared him so he will say his prayers some time in his life, and thus be saved," said Grant, with a smile. "Then, too, it is an American religion. The Methodists are entirely democratic, yet no Church appreciates the value of union, federalization, or centralization in government more than the Methodists. I wish that our national Government had the liberty and the strength that it ought to have from a proper exercise of these principles."

These are sound Democratic opinions, worthy of a war Democrat such as Grant has always been.

MR. WEED repeats the assertion made by him when questioned by Gen. Butler, that "Senator Pomeroy's friends" made "propositions" contemplating votes against the conviction of the President. Mr. Weed adds, however, that he has "no knowledge" of what came of them.

PERSONAL.

—Mr. Dion Boucicault writes: "A successful drama is worth at least £5,000, and a very great success may be worth from £30,000 to £45,000. Hitherto great actors and managers have divided between them the theatrical spoils. For example, the authors of 'The Lady of Lyons,' or 'London Assurance,' or 'The Love Chase,' were paid at the rate of about £5 a night for their work, and a guinea a night in the provincial theaters; while the star actor receives £20 a night in London and £50 in the provinces. I have changed all that. I demanded that the literary element should be equally recognized and better paid than the artistic. I have succeeded, and am happy to announce that a successful dramatic author can now make as much as even a prima donna."

—The Marquis of Hastings, whose losses on the Derby race, last year, made him bankrupt and compelled the sale of his splendid stable of thorough breds, is said to have lost one million pounds on the race on Wednesday, and to have committed suicide the same night. His horse Elizabeth was the favorite against the field before the race begun. Blue Gown, the winner of the race, is owned and was bred by Sir Joseph Hawley, who has twice before won the stakes. Beadsman, Blue Gown's sire, won the Derby in 1858, and Sir Joseph Hawley owns another of his colts, with which he will probably win next year's race.

—Gen. Stone, Sumner's victim, who was confined in Fort Lafayette for so many months without any charges being made against him, and who was finally released without trial or explanation, is established near Richmond, Va., in charge of an extensive colliery.

—Henry J. Raymond, the son of the editor of the New York Times, and now a student at Yale, and one of the editors of the Yale Literary Gazette, commenced to write when a very young boy, not more than eight years of age. While living in Saratoga he issued a weekly sheet called the Fireside Paper, which was printed at the Times office, and circulated among his friends and acquaintances. His little sister wrote poems for it. He bids fair to equal his father as a writer.

—The richest congregation in New York, except that of Trinity Church, is one of Jews who are building an elegant synagogue on Fifth avenue. The next in point of wealth is that of St. Bartholomew, which numbers William B. Astor and Commodore Vanderbilt among its pew-holders.

The Capture of Magdala.

The details of the Abyssinian war have come to hand. Magdala appears to have been a strong place, but there was really no fighting. An eye-witness says: "For fully half an hour the storming party remained huddled helplessly in the path, and if Major Cooper, who commanded them, had not found a way into the place over the stockade near the gate there might have been a heavy loss of life. As it was, fifty determined men might have done great mischief." But there were not fifty, nor yet half a dozen, willing to risk their lives for Theodorus; so that the bravery displayed does not amount to much. And why burn Magdala? The correspondent of the London Times thus describes the place the victorious troops fired: "It consisted of the ordinary collection of huts, most of them built of grass or wood, with thatched conical roofs, and did not boast even one building of exceptional beauty or importance. The church was one of the meanest and dirtiest that we have seen in Abyssinia, while the palace of the great Emperor Theodorus differed only from the surrounding huts of his humblest subjects in being larger, two storied, and with a thatched roof, not conical but oblong, giving it much the appearance of an English barn, except that no decent English farmer would allow any animal that he valued to live in a building so dark, dirty and ill ventilated.

What a picture to present of the residence of a monarch, made famous by a mighty nation putting forth its strength to attack him! The "loot" disappointed the captors. What conquest, to burn a congregation of wild huts. With the exception of the perils of the climate, this Abyssinian war was "Much ado about nothing," and the burning of Magdala and looting will remain a d[illegible]le to the British name.

There are two accounts of the death of Theodorus. The first said he shot himself, and the second affirms that he was killed in battle.

Within a few yards of the spot where the guns were commencing to play on Magdala, "on a ledge, about fifty feet below, lay two large heaps of mangled bodies, closely piled upon each other in ghastly confusion, their limbs protruding from the mass in all sorts of repulsive attitudes and contortions, and presenting altogether a scene of horror such as no pen could adequately describe."

Theodorus is thus described:

> "There was a look of bloated sensual indulgence about the cheeks by no means heroic or kingly, but the forehead was intellectual and the mouth singularly determined and cruel. A very strange smile lingered about the lips, as if even in the death throes his last thought had been one of triumph at having baulked the conquerors by dying a king."

Having completed the work of vengeance and "loot," the army marched to the coast, but we shall be surprised if England is content to leave her grip on a country capable of such poor resistance.

THE action of the Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, which met in this city last week, in suspending George A. Stuart, of Philadelphia, for singing hymns, is generally commented on by the press with a good deal of severity. "Rouse's version" was probably never so much handled without gloves as by the critics which this act has called into print, and specimen versifications are given which it is hard to believe men in their senses, will contend are inspired or even decent. Of the spirit evinced by the Synod, the Springfield (Mass.) Republican expresses its opinion as follows:

> "This act of sectarian intolerance and proscription is quite worthy of the early days of New England when hanging for witchcraft was in fashion, and heretic Baptists and Quakers were banished with their ears cut off and their noses gracefully. * * * They can proscribe the hymns which their followers and denomination shall sing, and can compel obedience, but will they follow this programme hereafter, and allow only the Reformed Presbyterian hymns to be sung in their heaven?"

The Chicago Tribune condemns the proceeding and gives some amusing specimens of psalms which are insisted on in the place of the hymns, for singing which Mr. Stuart has been "cast out." But less harsh than the Springfield paper, the Tribune says:

> "Whether to laugh down such ridiculous persecution, or to cry shame upon this absurd disregard of the simplest dictates of fellowship is a question which every sensible man will answer for himself."

A GATHERING of leading Democrats took place in Albany a few days since, when, it is reported, Ex-Governor Seymour took strong ground for Mr. Chase as the Democratic candidate. He thought that Mr. Chase, by aiding in thus harmonizing the anti-radical elements, would make himself the great leader of his party in the future. In the course of conversation it was hinted that the platform upon which Mr. Chase would stand would be acceptable to the anti-radical party. The Democrats present, representing nearly every section of the State, received Governor Seymour's suggestions, not only with the respect due to their source, but many of them with lively satisfaction. How does our neighbor of the Post like this? We should like to know, though it don't make a bit of difference who is the Democratic candidate. For this we have the authority of the Post itself.

In his celebrated ode upon the Duke of Wellington, the English poet Tennyson has some striking expressions which might seem to have been intended for a different subject. They are as follows:

> "The statesman-warrior, moderate, resolute,
> Whole in himself, a common good;
> Our greatest, yet with least pretense,
> Great in council and great in war,
> Foremost captain of his time,
> Rich in saving common sense,
> And, as the greatest only are,
> In his simplicity sublime."

It would be difficult to produce a better description of General Grant than is given in these few lines.

GET A GOOD SAW,

And Your Mill will do Good Work

Our Saws are Oil Tempered, Patent Ground, made to Run well.

You will find each Saw of one temper, no hard and soft spots in the same saw.
We accomplish this by our Patent Tempering Process, and you can not get this from any other saw maker, as we own the patents for the United States.
We do not claim to make a cheaper Saw than any one else, but one that will run at the word go, and will give no trouble, and will keep round longer; because being uniform with temper, it will not wear on one side faster than the other.
We invite correspondence, or an interview with the practical man of your firm.

FOR SALE.
Valuable Timber, Coal and Iron Lands in Pennsylvania.
The undersigned offer for sale that valuable tract of land in Clearfield county, Pennsylvania, on the West Branch of the Susquehanna River, (township of Covington and Krathaus,) known as the Krathaus Estate and containing above 5,000 acres.
The property is heavily Timbered with White Pine and White Oak, watered by never-failing streams; affording facilities for the erection of Grist and Saw Mills, and it is extremely valuable for lumbering purposes.
Abounding with inexhaustible beds of the finest Bituminous Coal, Iron Ore, Limestone, Slate Fire Clay, &c., the value of its mineral resources is beyond computation. A railroad from Bellefonte, runs to within nine miles of Krathaus, and other roads and branches are projected which will approach it still nearer. The advantages of Kartnaus, for the manufacture of iron on a basis of economy, is unsurpassed if equaled in the State of Pennsylvania.
Professor Johnson, in a Geological Report on this Estate, says: "A position for the manufacture of iron on a large scale is chiefly found in the abundance of all the materials and their immediate proximity to each other, and to a stream which supplies a competent water power for driving machinery."
A portion of the land is well adapted to agricultural purposes. There are on the estate a Stone Dwelling, also a Frame Dwelling, &c.
For further information apply to, or address

78 Wall street, New York, or
JOHN S. REESE,
MW 71 South street, Baltimore.

ADJOURNED ORPHANS' COURT SALE.—By order of the Orphans' Court of Allegheny county, I will expose to sale by public outcry, on the premises, in Elizabeth township, Allegheny county, on THURSDAY, June 4, 1868, at 10 A. M. the Farm of the late Wm. L. McClure, deceased, containing 208 Acres and 40 Perches, strict measure, more or less, bounded by lands of John Pollock, Frederick Rhoads, Samuel Edmondson and Andrew McClure, and by the Monongahela river. There are about 24 Acres of Coal under the Farm, and it may be the outlet of a large body of coal lying back of it. The improvements are two two-story Frame Dwelling Houses, two Tenant Houses, Frame Barn, Frame Stable, Orchard, &c. 140 acres are cleared and the balance in woodland. This Farm is not surpassed by any in Allegheny county. It has a frontage of about 167 5-10 perches on the Monongahela river, and is convenient to schools and churches, being but 2¾ miles from McKeesport and 3½ from Elizabeth. This property will be sold as a whole, or in two or more parts. Terms—One-third cash upon confirmation of the sale by the Court and the balance in two equal annual instalments, with interest, payable annually. The deferred payments to be secured by bond and mortgage. Purchaser to be at the expense of conveyancing and stamps.
JOHN POLLOCK, Surviving Executor.
For further particulars inquire of JOHN POLLOCK, on the adjoining farm, or THOMAS MACCONNELL & SON, Attorneys-at-Law, 93 Diamond street, Pittsburgh.

FROM OIL CITY, PA.

Oil Matters—New Public Buildings—County Politics—The Allegheny Valley Road—Another Daily Mail Wanted.

Special Correspondence of Pittsburgh Commercial.

OIL CITY, PA., June 1, 1868.

Business in the oil regions has greatly revived the past two months. The good prices which oil has commanded, the general good success in development and the fine stage of water in the river most of the time, have all guided to this result. It is idle to talk of business here if oil is left out of the question, for that, and nothing else, is what this section much depends upon. Consequently the activity in the oil market has had a corresponding effect upon the general business and our streets have exhibited considerable stir and bustle. You keep your readers so well posted in regard to new strikes and the progress of development that it is unnecessary to refer to the subject in this letter, further than to say the principal interest still centers about Shamburg and Pleasantville.

Very little is being done in the way of local improvements here, though there is talk of some of a very good character. One is a brick building for a Masonic Hall, to be erected by a joint stock company; and another is a brick church building for the Baptist Society. The erection of these would, no doubt, have a very beneficial effect on the place, giving it a character for permanence, and indicating a faith in its stability by the people, which a total want of such buildings deprives us of.

A good deal of interest is felt at present in the Republican primary elections which occur on Saturday next. The contest for sheriff is particularly animated between Capt. Hoyseth, of this place, and Major Waitland, of Rockland, with the chances rather in favor of the former. There is also considerable animation on Assembly and District Attorney, though the nomination of Colonel Duncan, of Pithole, our member last session, is generally conceded, and also that of Captain W. J. Galbraith, of this place, for District Attorney. The candidates announced, so far as I know, are all good men, and it is to be hoped such a ticket will be nominated as will elicit the full and united support of the party at the October election.

The completion of the Allegheny Valley Railroad to this place and the accommodating spirit exhibited by its managers adds greatly to our business and trading facilities, and are beginning to be highly appreciated. I understand an effort is being made by our postmaster to secure a through night mail over this road, leaving at nine o'clock in the evening, and arriving in the morning. It is greatly to be desired that this arrangement should be consummated, as it would save two days' time in most of the commercial transactions between the two places—in fact between Pittsburgh and the whole oil region. I hope your postmaster and the officers of the road will assist in the promotion of this very desirable arrangement. T.

FROM NEW BRIGHTON, PA.

Floral Ceremony of the 30th ult.—Honors to the Defenders of the Union.

Special Correspondence of Pittsburgh Commercial.

NEW BRIGHTON, PA., June 1, 1868.

The ceremony of strewing with flowers the graves of the heroes who fell in the war for the Union, which took place here on Saturday afternoon, was perhaps one of the most solemn and impressive scenes ever witnessed in this village. At 2 P. M. a procession was formed on Broadway, opposite the hall of the Grand Army of the Republic, in the following order:

1. New Brighton Brass Band.
2. School Children.
3. Citizens.
4. Soldiers not members of the G. A. R.
5. Members of the Post headed by Martial Band.

The procession marched to the cemetery, where each soldier's grave, after the customary salute with colors and martial music, was decked by one of his surviving comrades with a wreath of laurel and a bouquet.

After the graves were all decorated, prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Collins, when brief addresses were delivered by Rev. Mr. Critchlow and Capt. Ebert, then a closing prayer by Mr. Critchlow. The exercises were interspersed with very excellent and appropriate airs and songs by the choir of the Presbyterian church, and the brass band.

All business was suspended during the time of the ceremonies, and almost every individual in the place, from the youngest to the oldest, was ready and did pay some tribute to the memory of the brave men who laid down their lives a willing sacrifice upon the altar of human liberty. Though they are with us no more in the flesh, their spirits still live in the hearts of their comrades and friends, and their deeds of heroism and devotion to their country shall ever inspire the souls of their posterity and ours with a feeling of patriotism which no lapse shall ever annul, and which no treachery shall ever defeat.

FROM JOHNSTOWN, PA.

Decoration of Soldiers' Graves on Saturday.

Special Correspondence Pittsburgh Commercial.

JOHNSTOWN, PA., June 1, 1868.

The general order to the members of the Grand Army of the Republic for the decoration of the graves of Union soldiers was duly and most fitly observed in Johnstown on Saturday afternoon last. By special order of Gen. J. W. Campbell, our candidate for Surveyor General, and Commander of Post No. 30 at this place, the members of the order assembled at their hall at the hour appointed, and forming a procession, marched thence first to the Catholic burying place in Conemaugh Borough, then to the old Union Grave Yard in Johnstown, and finally to Sandy Vale Cemetery. The procession was headed by our silver Cornet Band, and was accompanied in its march by a large concourse of citizens. Each member of the procession bore his hands full of beautiful bouquets and tasteful wreaths of evergreens and flowers, which had been prepared for the occasion by the ladies, and these were strewn upon the graves of our fallen and sleeping heroes by their surviving comrades. At the Cemetery, where most of our dead soldiers are buried, an impressive prayer was offered by Rev. Capt. W. B. Dick, of the United Brethren Church, and a short address delivered by ex-chaplain A. J. Hartsock. The band played a funeral dirge, and a choir of singers sung an appropriate ode. The procession was then marched and countermarched, under the command of Capt. Wm. R. Jones, to the grave of each slumbering soldier, (which were designated by a little flag waving over each,) and with uncovered heads and silent tongues, each soldier's mound received the tribute of a wreath and sundry bouquets from the hands of surviving comrades. About fifty graves were thus decorated, and the ceremony being over, everybody felt that a sacred duty, pleasant in its performance but sad in the memories which it awakened, had been discharged.

FROM McKEESPORT, PA.

The Borough—New Glass Works—Revenue Collection—Improvements, &c.

Special Correspondence of Pittsburgh Commercial.

McKEESPORT, June 2, 1868.

This place was laid out in 1795, February 3, by John McKee, from whom it takes its name. The sale of lots was conducted upon the lottery system, and sold for $20, and $1 to be paid upon each lot annually thereafter. How the citizens got rid of paying this annual "assessment" is not exactly known. The population of this place and surroundings reaches 10,000 people.

A new glass house is about being erected here at a cost of from twenty to thirty thousand dollars. Ten acres of ground in a suitable locality has already been purchased.

W. E. Harrison, Esq., U. S. Collector of this sub-district, collected for the month of May $[illegible] revenue taxes.

The break of dam No. 2 has not interfered with the coal interests, as was at first anticipated.

Several of the streets of this place are to be paved this summer, and the probability is that the Nicolson pavement will be laid. R.

FROM UNIONTOWN, PA.

Enthusiastic Political Meeting—Fayette Republican Platform—The Democratic Primaries.

Special Correspondence Pittsburgh Commercial.

UNIONTOWN, PA., June 2, 1868.

A Republican meeting was held here last evening to ratify the Chicago nomination, and was one of the largest gatherings that has congregated in this city since 1860. The enthusiasm for Grant and Colfax is spreading rapidly, and recruits are flocking from all sections to the banner of the Republican party.

The meeting was called to order by appointing Wm. Parshall, Esq., to the chair, and selecting thirty vice presidents and four secretaries. Mr. Parshall stated the object of the meeting in a clear, telling speech, which was enthusiastically received.

The meeting adopted as their sentiment the eulogies upon Grant which were pronounced by the New York World and the Pittsburgh Post, and in addition thereto the Chicago platform.

G. W. K. Minor, Esq., Hon. Andrew Stewart, Col. John Collins, Jacob Miller, Esq., and others addressed the meeting, after which three cheers were given for Grant and Colfax and the meeting adjourned.

I was here last Saturday night—the day the Democrats made their nominations. They vote directly for the candidates and the man receiving the highest number in the county is the nominee. This brings together a large number of people. Whisky flowed freely, and pugilistic exhibitions resulted to the number of fifteen or twenty in about as many minutes, some of which would have compared favorably with Coburn and McCoole's best, making in all respects one of the most ludicrous and at the same time instructive lessons we have ever witnessed—instructive because of the opportunity to study human nature, whisky and democracy in Fayette county. THE ERUPTION OF MAUNA LOA.

An Original Account.

(From the Boston Traveller.)

We have been permitted to copy a letter received in this city from a missionary at the Sandwich Islands, as follows:

HONOLULU, April 22, 1868.

God in his all-wise providence has removed us from the field of our labor, we hope only for a little season. His hand has been heavy indeed on the southeastern portion of our island the district of Kau. Almost the entire district has been desolated. The earth has been shaken and rent as it were in pieces, and almost everything on the surface is in ruins. The houses of worship are all prostrate, and the house of Bro. Pogue, at Waiohinu, is a wreck, and so are the houses of all the foreigners in the district. All the native villages along the seashore for the distance of fifteen or twenty miles have been destroyed by the tidal wave and by the upheaving of molten lava. It is said that more than one hundred natives lost their lives. Some were buried alive, some swept off by the wave, and others suffocated by the smoke and gases.

No estimate can now be made of the number of cattle and the amount of property destroyed. Most of the foreign residents and many of the natives have escaped with their lives only. We feel great solicitude for Mr. Pogue and family, who were at Waiohinu during all these terrific convulsions of nature, and, so far as we know, are still there. But God is their refuge. He has marvellously protected them and many others of his own children amid these most fearful and untold dangers.

Next to the district of Kau, South Kona has had the severest shaking, being nearest, and directly on the opposite side of Mauna Loa, and directly under, as it were, the great central crater. March 27, early in the morning, we discovered an immense column of smoke and gas, which in a few minutes had attained the height of seven miles, forming huge pillars, grand beyond description. In less than half an hour, these columns of smoke had shot up along the slope of the great mountain southward, to the distance of ten or fifteen miles.

We thought it was from a stream of lava, and that it was flowing in a southwesterly direction. And was on my way to attend a meeting at Kealia, twelve miles south of us, I watched the progress of the smoke with not a little interest, thinking that before evening the stream might reach the sea and cut off our retreat. But the clouds soon shut in the whole mountain, and nothing more was seen during the day. The night came, and we looked in vain for the pillar of fire over the great crater, and for the light from the flowing stream. During the whole night no light nor smoke were to be seen. All was clear, and as still as death.

On Saturday morning, the 28th, we had a slight shock of earthquake, and in the course of an hour or two, another, then another, and still another—the intervals becoming shorter and the shocks becoming harder, until about one o'clock P. M. While we sat at dinner, it seemed as if an immense boiler was heaved up under the foundations of our house.

In a few moments the foundations of the everlasting hills seemed to give way, the earth groaned and waved to and fro, and trembled as if, in its most intense agony, she were struggling to relieve herself. Avalanches of earth and large portions of land from the "pali" directly in front of the house, were thrown into the sea. Vast quantities of stone wall, fencing, and many stone houses were thrown down. The shocks now became so frequent and hard that they were really alarming. Everybody seemed to wait in breathless silence to see the end.

From one o'clock P. M. Saturday until 11 the intervals between the distinct shocks did not average over three minutes. From eleven until five o'clock Saturday A. M. the shocks were less frequent, but from that time until one in the afternoon the vibration of our house never ceased—the shocks, some light and some hard, were from two to three minutes, but the tremulous motion was continuous.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the shaking continued, some times less and some times more frequent, though not so hard.

On Thursday, during the morning, the shakes were slight, and we began to hope the earth might be quiet; but in the afternoon, at ten minutes before four o'clock, we experienced the hardest, most fearful and terrific earthquake ever known at these islands. The oldest natives unite their testimony that never was there such terrific shaking at the islands. The whole island seemed like a great ship tossed to and fro her moorings, reeling to and fro, rising and falling, shaking fearfully, as if she were going to pieces.

Every one wanted something to hold to, but there was nothing; from everything was shaking, reeling, pitching. The very trees were tossing to and fro, as if they would be uprooted; stone fences, houses, etc., were falling all around us. We tried to be still. We knew it was God—our covenant God and Father. "He looketh upon the earth, and it trembleth; he toucheth the hills, and they smoke." We told him we were dust, that he knew our frame, and we felt that the everlasting arms were underneath and round about us. Yes, it was good to feel, when the solid hills of lava were all crumbling, we were on the sure foundation—the Rock of Ages.

For eleven days and nights we waited with intense anxiety—praying, hoping, trusting in the Lord. We longed to see a great crater open or a great river of fire flowing, for then we thought the earth would be at rest. In all this time we never undressed for the night, passing the nights in a tent, spread in our yard a little distance from the house. This was partly to avoid the danger of the timbers and plastering of the house falling and crushing us and partly to avoid the noise from the incessant creaking and vibration.

On the night of the 7th of April, as we reclined in our tent, we saw for the first time the light from a crater which had just opened on the southwestern portion of Mauna Loa, not far from Waiohinu, the stream flowing into the sea a little south of that point.

We hoped to have been saved the necessity of leaving the station and our people, especially as it is a time of a good deal of religious interest in some portions of our field, but Mrs. —— and the children had suffered so much from intense excitement that I felt it a duty to bring them away for a few days.

The shaking has continued, we learn from other portions of the island, but less frequent and less violent.

His Majesty, the King, with a party of exploration, sailed yesterday for Kau. The object of the expedition is to relieve and bring away the suffering and any who wish to leave.

We feel that the Lord has been indeed very gracious to us as a family and to our people. So far as we know, no lives have been lost, and we left all our houses of worship standing, though the one at Koalia is badly rent, and we have fears it may not stand. The people there had a meeting for prayer every day during all these terrific earthquakes, and when they were afraid to meet in the house they assembled in the yard and there poured out their prayers and praises to the God of their salvation.

Every Violation

Of the laws of health invariably entails its own punishment, and the warnings administered by the faithful monitor (pain) cannot be neglected with impunity. If its admonitions were heeded, and the proper remedy immediately resorted to, a vast amount of suffering would be prevented, and dangerous diseases averted. When the head throbs, the lips become parched, and the cheek is burning—the warning is given; neglect is then dangerous. In the vast storehouse of nature may be found remedies for all the different maladies that afflict mankind, without resorting to pernicious minerals. The best of these medicinal agents have been incorporated in the preparation known as HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, and offered as a safe remedy to those suffering from the various forms of fever. This medicine has steadily and surely won its way into the confidence of the public, and has received the warmest encomiums from the press and people throughout the Union. As a valuable tonic for the cure of Dyspepsia, Flatulence, Constipation, and general nervous debility, it cannot be approached. Every day, new cases of its great effect are chronicled through our public journals. There is nothing equal to the enjoyment which the afflicted experience when using this valuable specific. Its mild tone, its sure and vigorous action upon a disordered stomach, and the cleansing of the entire human body, should recommend it to all classes of our community.

Similia Similibus Curantur.

FOR SORE, WEAK, INFLAMED EYES AND EYELIDS.

A true specific and invaluable remedy has been at last discovered. Dr. HUMPHREYS argues that these affections invariably result from a constitutional disease, of which the local affection is only the outward manifestation. Hence, HUMPHREYS' SPECIFIC HOMEOPATHIC OPTHALMY PILLS are only taken internally, and yet cure the worst forms of obstinate sore eyes and eyelids, which have resisted all other treatment. All cases of sore and inflamed eyes and eyelids, or failing, weak or defective sight, will be promptly benefited, and the cure of the worst cases is only a question of time. Price 50 cents, with directions.

FAMILY CASES

Of 35 large vials, morocco case, containing a specific for every ordinary disease a family is subject to, and a book of directions, $10 00

Smaller FAMILY and TRAVELING cases, with 20 to 28 vials, from - - - $5 to 8

TUESDAY, June 2, 1868.

The marked feature of the money market is the increasing abundance of currency at the East. It has reached the lowest rates thus far for the season, and under the figures of the bank statement, which shows an increase for the week of three millions of legal tenders, and only three-quarters of a million in loans, promises speedily to reach rates never paralleled in that market, except probably in midsummer last year. Balances are placed already in large amounts with Government stock houses at 2 and 3 per cent., and these houses, notwithstanding the great dealings in United States bonds, find it difficult to employ the amounts offered them, showing that the present home demand for governments comes mainly from investors with capital.

—There is no sensible change in our own market. Business is rather dull, and there is comparatively little paper offering.

—Gold advanced a fraction, and closed weak at 140.

—The New York railway share market exhibited less activity to-day, and the decline in Erie to 68½ depressed the whole list. Last week there was increased speculative activity in the railway share market during the week and prices experienced a general advance until Friday morning, the upward movement being led by New York Central and Erie. Then, however, the cliques having previously sold some of their stocks to the street, a reaction set in which was particularly sharp in Erie, the decline being nearly three per cent. from the highest point touched. There is no more outside support to the market than there has been at any time during the last three months, but the cliques have enormous resources at their command and large interests at stake, and with the cheap and abundant supply of money now at their disposal they find little difficulty in advancing prices so long as they are willing to buy, and so stimulate speculation for a rise among the army of brokers and other professional speculators who "live, move and have their being" in Wall street, and who are always on the alert for the moving of the waters of speculation. Hence when the cliques make the market active by their "washing" operations these outside observers sail in and make or lose in the same hap-hazard manner which distinguishes any other kind of gambling. In the long run, with a few exceptions, they lose, as they have to play against combinations with loaded dice, but for the time being they are willing to take the chances of the game, ten to one against them though they may be. There is clearly no inducement to sell anything on the list of railway shares "short" under present circumstances, for the cliques have the power to put prices up as easily as they can put them down, but stocks are so high that it is equally dangerous to buy them, and therefore, the outside public will consult its own safety by continuing to neglect them: for if it came in as a buyer the cliques would undoubtedly avail themselves of the opportunity to unload.

Rock Island sells at about 96, and is fairly maintained at this price, notwithstanding the litigations. The road will be completed across Iowa to the Missouri river, it is expected, during next year. The company have now funds in hand to carry on this extension, and upon the completion of it acquires lands in Iowa granted by Congress, which, for the distance now to be built, Des Moines to the Missouri river, may amount to some 600,000 acres.

Fort Wayne is selling at about 116. The Union and Logansport road opened June 1st, making complete the new route from Pittsburgh to Chicago, under the control of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, thus establishing a rival line to the Fort Wayne company's. The proposed arrangement for a consolidation of earnings on through business, from Pittsburgh to Chicago, has, we understand, been declined by the Fort Wayne Company. It is said that another proposition has been made to lease the road for fifty years to the Pennsylvania Company, at the rate of eight per cent. per annum on the stock, but not accepted.

The following comparative statement, furnished by J. W. Kennedy, Broker, 80 Fourth street, shows the range of prices for the past week at the New York Stock Boards:

—The government market is exceedingly active to-day. There is little disposition to sell, but all are eager to buy at the bidding prices. Large amounts are sought after by the brokers without being obtained, and the general impression seems to be that the market will see a still further advance this week.

Messrs. Ira B. McVay & Co., report the following quotations of Government bonds in New York to-day, as furnished them by Jay Cooke & Co., their correspondents:

Metal Circular.

From the Philadelphia metal circular of Ralston & Matthews, we learn that the pig iron market is weak, with more inquiry, however. We hear of sales of some 5,000 tons all grades the past week at prices ranging from [illegible] for No. 1 foundry; [illegible] for No. 2 foundry; [illegible] for No. 2 grey forge, and [illegible] for white and mottled.

Scotch iron is very dull with little inquiry. Sales of some 200 tons reported at $37 ex ship.

Merchant Bars are in fair demand, and former quotations are firmly sustained viz: [illegible] for refined and [illegible] for common.

New Rails—Demand is large and prices are firm at [illegible] for American, and [illegible], gold, for foreign.

Old Rails are scarce and in demand at [illegible] ton. Prices having advanced [illegible] ton in Europe, and a proportionate advance is looked for here.

Wrought Scrap scarce with increasing inquiry. We quote No. 1 at [illegible], and No. 2 at [illegible].

Cast Scrap is in good demand; No. 1 Machine is worth [illegible].

Copper is firm at quotations, and in request at 24½c for Detroit; 23½c for Lake and 23½c for Baltimore and New York.

PRODUCE AND GENERAL MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL,
TUESDAY EVENING, June 2, 1868.

The produce and general markets continue very dull—hardly sufficient doing to establish reliable quotations. The following table exhibits the amount of flour and grain received during the month of May, 1868, compared with April, 1868, and total since January 1st, 1868:

	1868. May.	1868. April.	Total since Jan. 1, 1868.
Flour, bbls	29,321	28,629	111,858
Apples, bbls	9,050	1,370	13,462
Cheese, boxes	1,488	379	5,064
Corn, sacks	34,308	72,930	199,495
Wheat, sacks	28,727	21,492	70,932
Barley, sacks	2,184	3,973	24,814
Rye, sacks	9,394	9,695	38,432
Oats, sacks	16,234	22,547	75,176
Butter, pkgs	886	441	3,204
B Meats (loose) pcs	22,188	51,136	144,918

The amount inspected is reported to be only 15,150 bbls of flour, whilst the receipts were 29,321 barrels.

The import receipts do not show the amounts received per Pennsylvania Central Railroad. There was however very little, if any, flour or grain received here over that road.

The receipts of leading articles of produce per river and rail since our last were as follows: Flour 1,814 bbls; cheese 175 bxs; corn 665 sacks; wheat 251 sacks; barley 19 sacks; rye 175 sacks; oats 1,316 sacks; and butter 84 packages.

We quote as follows, which are the wholesale store prices unless otherwise noted:

SODA ASH—Sales reported at 4½c ℔ ℔.

PEARL ASH—Sales at 11c ℔ ℔.

LEAD—We quote pig lead at 10@10½c ℔ ℔.

CHEESE—Market moderately active at 18c for Goshen; 16@17c for Factory; 15@16c for Hamburg, and 14c ℔ ℔ for Western Reserve.

BACON, LARD, ETC.—Market moderately active at the following quotations: Plain sugar cured hams 19½c; canvassed sugar cured hams 20½c; plain family hams 18½c; canvassed family hams 19½c; plain shoulders 14@14½c; canvassed sugar cured shoulders 16c; rib sides 16¼@16½c; clear sides 18@18½c; plain dried beef 23c; canvassed dried beef 24c; lard 19@19½c; plain breakfast bacon 18½c, and canvassed do 19½c ℔ ℔.

LARD OIL—Market steady at $1 50 ℔ gall for extra No. 1, and $1 25 ℔ gall for No. 2.

BUTTER—Market very dull and prices nominal. The best only commands 18@20c ℔ ℔.

EGGS—Market firm at 23@24c ℔ dozen.

POTATOES—Choice potatoes are selling at $1 35@1 40 ℔ bush.

SALT—On the track sales were made at $1 75 ℔ bbl; to the trade delivered at $1 80@1 85 ℔ bbl, and from store small jobbing lots at $2 00 ℔ bbl.

SEEDS—There is no demand for either clover or timothy seed. Flaxseed sells at $2 50@2 55 ℔ bush.

HOMINY—Sales of flint hominy were made at $6 25@6 50 ℔ bbl.

BEANS—Choice small white beans are scarce and command $6 75@7 00 ℔ bushel.

DRIED APPLES—Are dull at 6½@7c ℔ ℔. For extra prime small sales were made at 7½@7¾c.

DRIED PEACHES—Sales of 20 bbls Ohio halves at 13½c, and 30 bbls Kentucky at 14c ℔ ℔.

GRAIN—Prime red winter wheat has been in better receipt during the past week, and we quote it nominally at $2 60 ℔ bush. White wheat may be quoted at $2 70 ℔ bush. On the wharf oats sold at 80@83c, with one sale reported of 1,000 bush, purchaser furnishing sacks, delivered at the depot, at 80c ℔ bush. From elevator oats sold at the same figures, and from store at 84@87c ℔ bush. Prime yellow ear and shelled corn from first hands sells at $1 00@1 05 ℔ bush. Rye cannot be quoted from first hands at over $1 75@1 80 ℔ bush. No barley offering and prices nominal, say $2 50 ℔ bush.

CORN MEAL—We quote from store at $1 15 ℔ bush.

RYE FLOUR—Prices nominally $10 ℔ bbl.

FLOUR—Although the Western and Eastern markets are reported dull and lower, we have no change to note in this market from our last report. There is no demand here for flour, except for the best brands, and all others are dull and nominal in price. We continue to quote choice Winter brands ranging from $11 75@12 75; choice spring at $11 00@11 50, and medium brands at $9 50@10 75 ℔ barrel. A great deal of flour is offered by all dealers at lower figures, but the brands are unknown, and but few dealers or consumers are willing to invest.

T. C. Jenkins, wholesale flour dealer, checkered front, No. 273 Liberty street, is selling the following well known brands at the prices named:

Dayton Snow Flake, white winter	$12 75
White River, Winter and Red Jacket	12 00
Jenkins's Lilly and Favorite Winter	11 75
Cresset's	11 50
Cerecco and Ford's	11 00@11 25
Medium brands	10 50@11 00

PITTSBURGH OIL TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL,
WEDNESDAY, June 3, 1868.

BUSINESS—Yesterday was a dull day, so far as it relates to oil. Buyers evidently made up their minds to hold off, or else they purchased sufficient on Monday for two days. The Eastern market was devoid of activity. Dispatches furnish the following quotations: Philadelphia—Prime light straw to white, 28½c; standard white, 27½@27¾c; crude, including packages, 17c. New York—Fair demand; prime light straw to white, 28c; standard white, 29c; crude, bulk, 13c. Oil City—Market reported very dull at $3 50 ℔ bbl.

CRUDE OIL—The sales yesterday were 1,400 bbls, all told. Holders, however, were firm, refusing to make concessions in order to effect sales. The sales reported were 500 bbls bulk, spot, 10½c; 800 bbls do, spot, 10½c, and sales of 100 bbls Smith's Ferry, at 10c. The receipts were 3,470 bbls.

REFINED OIL—The market was dull; buyers were not inclined to operate. Buyers were offering the following: For standard white, Philadelphia delivery, for June, 28½c; July, 29c; August 29½c; for the last five months, 31c ℔ gall. The only sale reported was 500 bbls for the last half of June, at 28½c ℔ gall.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

CHICAGO.

Cattle—The past week has been an active and profitable week for sellers. The receipts have been quite moderate and shippers encouraged by the favorable reports in the Eastern markets, took hold sharp, and each days' arrival were quickly absorbed. There was a full attendance of New York, Boston and Albany buyers, and under a good healthy competition, values slowly but steadily appreciated, until an advance of 25@50c ℔ 100 ℔s has been established. Good to choice fat steers, of from 1,250 to 1,500 ℔s average were in brisk demand throughout at $9 [illegible], with a few sales at $9 12½@9 25 for extra, and had the offerings embraced a few hundred head additional, no difficulty would have been experienced in disposing of them at satisfactory prices.

Fair to good second class steers have also met with a good inquiry on Pittsburgh and Buffalo account, at a range of $7 50@8 25 for average of from 1,100 to 1,200 ℔s. The demand for butchers' stock, to meet the wants of the city trade, though by no means urgent, has been sufficiently active to readily absorb the supply, and suitable lots have commanded advanced rates. There has been but a limited movement in the market for stock cattle, and quotations for such are little more than nominal. Present prices are considered too high to justify purchases for feeding and no considerable demand for this class of stock need be anticipated until lower prices shall prevail. Hence the demand for common and medium grades of stock is restricted, and drovers and countrymen generally will promote their own interests by withholding such for the present. Our city butchers, too, are as a general thing in quest of a better class of stock than formerly, so that in the future a very limited supply of this "vagabond" stock will satisfy the wants of the market here.

The prospects for the ensuing week are quite cheering and the market closes up strong, with only a few "odds and ends" remaining in the pens unsold. The following were the closing prices

CLOSING PRICES.

Extra Beeves—Fine, fat, well formed, 4 to 6 year old steers, and averaging 1,300 ℔s and upwards	$8 75@9 12½
Prime Beeves—Good, well fatted, finely-formed steers, averaging from 1,100 to 1,400 ℔s, at	8 00@8 50
Fair Grades—Fair steers, in fair flesh, averaging 1,000@1,200 ℔s, at	7 00@7 75
Medium Class—Medium steers and good cows, fit for city slaughter and averaging 900@1,000 ℔s, at	5 50@6 75
Stock Cattle—Common cattle in decent flesh, averaging 800@1,000 ℔s, at	5 50@6 75
Inferior—Light and thin cows and steers	4 00@5 00

Hogs—The receipts have been comparatively light, falling some 5,000 below the receipts of last week, but the supply, nevertheless, has largely exceeded the requirement of the trade, and the result has been apparent in a steady depreciation in values. Eastern advices have been uniformly of an unfavorable character and the shippers were shy and their movements have been conducted with unusual caution. The inquiry has been confined almost wholly to the better grades for Philadelphia, Boston and Baltimore, and consequently the market for common grades has ruled extremely dull throughout. The decline on good to choice hogs has been slight, but for the poorer sorts prices have receded fully 25@35c ℔ 100 ℔s, and the market for such has still a downward look. We quote as follows:

Good to choice hogs	$9 00@9 50
Fair to good hogs	8 50@8 75
Inferior to common hogs	7 00@8 25

Sheep—The receipts for the week were 7,450 head, and shipments 1,791. The week just closed has been the most disastrous one of the season. The receipts have been large and generally of poor quality, and in sympathy with the eastern market, prices have dropped fully $1 ℔ 100 ℔s. Even at this reduction, sales dragged heavily, and a large number of common sheep remain over unsold. The market closes dull at $[illegible] 25 for good to choice wooled sheep, and $3@4 for common to medium grades.

The Sugar Crop of Louisiana.

A pamphlet has been issued by the New Orleans Price Current, containing a detailed statement of the sugar crop of Louisiana for 1867–68. The total crop is 37,647 hogsheads. Plaquemines makes the largest returns—5,845 hogsheads, and Assumption the next largest—5,609. St. Landry returns only 4 hogsheads, Vermillion 76, Pointe Coupee 10, and Calcasieu 9. It must be remembered that Pointe Coupee was almost entirely overflowed last year, and also a large portion of Iberville, West Baton Rouge, and other sugar-raising parishes. The crop of this year ought to be much larger than last by the increased area in cultivation. There are indications that this culture is reviving, and we may expect that in a few years it will reach, and perhaps exceed its former development, when the crop ranged from 300,000 to 500,000 hogsheads.

Gloucester Fish Market.

For the week ending May 29.—George's Codfish—None in shipping order, owing to the unfavorable weather for curing; last sales at $7. Mackerel—We hear of no transactions the past week: Bay 1s are held at $24; no arrivals of new. Halibut—Sales at $6 ℔ cwt; smoked do scarce; sales 13c ℔ ℔. Oils 75c ℔ gallon.

MATTERS AND THINGS ALONG THE WHARF.—Business along the landing was not very active. It is easy to perceive that the dull season has already been inaugurated. The Leonidas left for St. Louis with all the freight she wanted. The America is loading next, and is announced for Thursday for St. Louis, in connection with the Northern Line. The Julia departed for Zanesville with a fair trip. The Bayard, for Parkersburg, left on time. She will be followed by the Grey Eagle to-day, at noon. The Ingomar leaves at 11 A. M. for Wheeling. The J. N. McCullough will be found at the landing. She will return to Cincinnati at noon on Thursday. The towboat Painter No. 2 left for the Shotwell Mines, on the lower Ohio, with eight barge boats, each containing 3,000 bushels of coal; total, 24,000 bushels.

THE Leonidas left yesterday for St. Louis with an excellent trip.

THE Parkersburg packet for this day is the steamer Grey Eagle, Capt Brennan, leaving at noon.

THE Wheeling packet for this day at eleven A. M. is the sidewheel steamer Ingomar, Capt. Kemple.

THE steamer Westmoreland, Captain Evans, arrived at Cincinnati on Sunday from New Orleans.

THE J. N. McCullough, Captain Moore, left for Pittsburgh. She will be due this morning, and will return to Cincinnati on Thursday.

THE steamer St. Charles, Capt. C. A. Dravo, was announced to leave Cincinnati for this port on Monday. She will return to Cincinnati on Friday.

ANOTHER RUN OF COAL.—Since our last issue the Mary Alice, Coal Valley and J. S. Neal have departed with 240,000 bushels of coal. Destination—Cairo, Louisville and Cincinnati.

A GOOD SIZED FLEET.—The towboat Ajax passed Cairo yesterday on her way to Louisville from New Orleans with seventeen empty barges. The Ajax is one of the boats you read about.

THE first class passenger steamer America, Capt. Adam Poe, is announced for Cairo, St. Louis and St. Paul in connection with the Northern Packet Line. This boat is well found in every respect. The first clerk is Capt. Murdock, one of the most gentlemanly and attentive officers that comes to this port.

WEDNESDAY CINCINNATI PACKET.—The well known passenger steamer New York, Capt. Richmond, leaves at 4 P. M. for Cincinnati and way points. This boat has good speed, fine accommodations and is in charge of careful and attentive officers. Passengers and shippers will bear the New York in mind.

The Ollie Sullivan goes into the Evansville and Cannelton trade permanently, and Captain John H. Triplett takes charge of the office. His familiar acquaintance along the coast will render him a valuable auxiliary to the "Ollie."

The Rob Roy went up to Green River Island yesterday afternoon to take some 2,000 bags of corn, and expected to return early last night, that her officers might patronize the temperance festival. Lew Morris is a "Son," and Captain Barcley is a "Cadet."

CINCINNATI.—Monday's Gazette says:

The Emma No. 3, Pittsburgh to St. Louis, passed down on Saturday, well loaded. She received a few passengers here. Pilots, John Sullivan and Moses Kirkpatrick.

The Delaware, Pittsburgh to Nashville, is expected here to-day.

The Westmoreland arrived about midnight Saturday from New Orleans. She will probably commence to reload immediately.

THE Board of Directors of the Kentucky River Navigation Company met at Lexington on the 27th, and adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, That unless the counties of Madison and Clark will make the subscription asked of them by this company, the Board will not feel themselves justified in undertaking the improvement of the Kentucky river.

The President was then instructed to visit the counties named, and ask for their subscriptions to the capital stock of the company as provided by the law.

ST. LOUIS ITEMS.—River falling steadily with three feet five inches on the lower and four feet six inches of water on the upper rapids. A good stage of water in the Missouri and Illinois. Weather very warm. Over 5,000 tons freight left here last week for New Orleans.

Edward Sturges, watchman of the towboat Sam. Brown, on Thursday night fell from a barge in tow of the boat above Cape Girardeau and was drowned. The boat was bound here and arrived yesterday. Sturges is lately from England and is not known to have any relatives in this country.

There was a terrible storm along the Illinois the other day. The Schuyler was caught by the wind and blown against a large tree with such power as to force it out of the ground. The boat was not injured. At Sharpe's Landing we learn that two warehouses were blown down, while at Liverpool no damage of any moment was done.

The Gerard B. Allen is in the Daggett docks, undergoing repairs. Upon examination it was found that sixty-eight "floors" had been broken by striking the hidden break near Marion, on her way to this port from Omaha. The shock of the concussion is described by those who were on board as having been most severe.

The Victory will take the place of the Tom Jasper in the Quincy Packet (opposition) Line Tuesday.

Third Important and Extensive Public Sale at

Shaffer's Carriage Bazaar,

DIAMOND ALLEY, NEAR LIBERTY ST.,

On Wednesday, June 3d, 1868

AT 10 O'CLOCK A. M.,

The third popular sale will take place at Shaffer's Bazaar. BAROUCHES, BUGGIES, JAGGER WAGONS, together with a number of other styles of light vehicles. Also, TWO FINE ROAD HORSES. One fine mahogany bay trotting Stallion, 15½ hands high, 7 years old, without a blemish—known as "LITTLE GEORGE;" has beaten and can beat 2:45 to harness, and has no superior as a pole horse for his speed; very quiet and kind. And that fine, stylish Bay Mare, raised by George W. Smith, Esq., of Wheeling, West Virginia; sired by his Glencoe Horse; dam a very fine Tuckahoe mare; 7 years old, sound and kind; 15½ hands high; has trotted in 3 minutes to a road wagon, and is a most excellent SADDLE MARE, known as the

"MACKEY MARE."

The owner wishes to dispose of these Horses, as he intends to be absent from the city the greater part of the coming summer. These Horses can be seen prior to the day of sale at No. 204 Penn street.

In addition a large and well assorted stock of fine Harness, &c., will be sold at the same time and place.

All interested should know that the Vehicles, Horses, Harness, &c., will be sold without reserve, and those wishing anything in the above enumerated list will find it to their benefit to attend.

Also, the Fast Trotting Horse,

ROXBURY.

Roxbury is a Sorrel Roan, 15½ hands high, nine years old, pony made, with great muscular developments and extraordinary style; he trotted at Boston last year, to a wagon in 2:36½; trotted at Passaic county fair, Patterson, N. J., in October, to pole, on a heavy track, in 2:44½. Is a spirited though gentle driver, and sold only to close a partnership.
